BARTD Still Ponders D.C. Station Future

Decision Aug. 24 On Cuts?

The question of whether or not Daly City will still get its promised Bay Area Rapid Transit District station, in the face of drastic system cutbacks in other areas, has been left unanswered.

BARTD's Board of Directors Thursday tossed back to their Engineering Committee recommendations submitted earlier which outlined plans for slicing off 13 stations and some 20 miles of tracks.

The move was aimed at "saving" the system more than $137 million. BARTD presently has a projected deficit of $160 million, however, the difference would come from reinvested bond interests and federal capital grants.

Earlier, the engineering committee had recommended deferring construction of three end-of-line stations; in Hayward, Concord and Richmond.

Daly City's terminus was left

New Centers Take Sales

By FRANK LaPIERRE

For the past several years, an area of Daly City known as the "Top of the Hill" has been gradually going downhill.

The stores that line the east side of Mission Street, report a decline in sales and customer drawing power, mainly because shoppers have turned to the more attractive shopping complexes in other areas of the city with their tree-lined malls and ample parking facilities.

Daly City's plight is certainly not a unique one!

The female shopper of today prefers to drive to market, rather than walk as she did less than a decade ago, and a few more miles (or minutes) to get to a "suitable" shopping area doesn't seem to bother her.

And if that shopping area is attractively landscaped, has sufficient parking facilities and displays its wares in open, easy-to-see shop windows, that's all the more reason for spending one's money there.

Because of these huge shopping complexes, "older" stores in downtown shopping areas have been hit where it hurts the most — in their cash registers.

One such city whose businessmen faced up to this situation some time ago and decided to do something about it, was the small (32,000 pop.) city of San Bruno.

The merchants agreed to higher assessments to accomplish their mission and, with the assistance of the city, razed buildings near the downtown area to provide off-street parking; passed a plan to spruce up the sidewalks by giving the street a mall-like atmosphere with potted trees, and agreed to undertake a program to remodel store fronts along the main thoroughfare.

The project was not as costly as merchants and landowners had at first envisioned.

Rather than a blanket reconstruction program of the downtown area, San Bruno divided the project into several smaller segments, implementing them on a pay-as-you-go basis.

The results have surprised even the most dubious shopowners. Sales and foot traffic in the downtown area have steadily increased, they report.

In some instances Daly City's Mission Street is similar to San Bruno's main street; in others, as far apart as the two poles.

Daly City's east-of-Mission Street area drops sharply toward the Junipera Serra Freeway area, while San Bruno's downtown area is comparatively

No Increase In Tax Rate In San Bruno

By DON GRIERSON

San Bruno councilmen set the 1967-68 city tax rate at $1.10 per each $100 assessed valuation Monday, the same rate in effect during the past year.

The city's final approved budget for the coming year totals $3,246,716.

In other business at Monday's council meeting, a contract for a personnel classification study was awarded to Griffenhagen, Kroeger, Inc., a management consultant firm.

The study, which will cost $2,900, is needed to "update the city's classification system," and remove discrepancies in the present classification scale in severl departments, according to City Manager Gerard Vergeer.

A contract was also awarded for "phase six" of the city's current street resurfacing and improvement program. The contract went to the L. C. Smith Company, which entered the lowest of three bids at $54,396.

The council set a public hearing August 28 on a proposed amendment to the city's personnel rules. The amendment will provide additional sick leave benefits to city employes, allowing 120 days of accumulated sick leave.

Jeff El Teachers Could Get Raises

By WILL THOMAS

Negotiations for teacher salary increases in the Jefferson Elementary School District are expected to get under way this week in Daly City, since more money has become available through a budget-saving $400,000 hike in state funding.

District Supt. Frank Greenwood explained Friday, that the increase in state monies, will allow the district not only to ride well within its final budget figure of $6,617,574, but also will make available funds for a "healthy reserve" and some teacher salary increases if trustees so desire.

Te board has not yet committed itself to teacher pay increases, but Greenwood noted he had been directed by Chairman Thomas Noonan to schedule a series of salary negotiating meetings.

He said they probably would start next week.

The state allocation brings the Jefferson budget up to $6,862,000.

Jefferson's final budget actually required a 42-cent increase over last year, yet trustees approved a resolution when the budget was adopted, authorizing an increase of only 25 cents per each $100 of assessed valuation.

Teacher organizations have sought increases of nearly nine per cent.

Greenwood estimated that, with maintenance of a reserve, the salary increases — if any — could be from four to five per cent, to stay within the bolstered budget.

The final budget, as adopted prior to receiving of the additional state funds, did not allow salaries of personnel to be negotiated.

He noted, that turstees want to keep an adequate reserve as a "buffer" against severe financial problems during the 1968-69 year, when the state either will withhold funds or demand a percentage reduction of the existing basic tax rate.

Greenwood explained that trustees preferred to have this year's rate (with its 25-cent per $100 assessed valuation in-

Site of Discovery To Be Preserved

Pacifica officials received reassurance on the future of the Portola Discovery Site preservation project recently at the council's annual luncheon meeting with San Mateo County supervisors.

Supervisor Jean Jean Fassler told Mayor Grace McCarthy and members of the council the only question now existing in regard to the project is "how much land to preserve."

"I assure you the county is moving on this project, and it is now just a matter of time before arrangements are completed," she said.

Pacifica officials also received favorable opinion on chances of county participation in construction of a civic center complex in the city.

Supervisor Robert St. Clair said a joint effort on the future project "is quite feasible, because of such current county programs in the city as the Veterans Affairs Office and juvenile court.

Fox told supervisors the range, which is utilized by hundreds of sportsmen in the area, is threatened with extinction, because of problems in obtaining an access road.

Work Progresses On Coast Schools

Construction work on Pacifica's fourteenth and fifteenth elementary schools is progressing, with bricklayers stacking the Crespi School to definite shape and Park Pacifica School site contractors preparing foundation trenches.

Both "open plan" facilities — of design similar to three-year-old Fairmont and two-year-old San Andreas schools—are expected to be completed next year.

Laguna Salada School District business services administrator John Munt indicated the Crespi plant should be ready for occupancy by next March 1.

He said the Park Pacifica School probably would not be occupied before September of 1968, though it likely will be completed early next May — too near the summer break in classes to schedule occupancy.

Site preparation work on the Crespi School on Fassler Avenue, near Crespi Drive, was completed about two months ago under a separate $300,000 contract.

The Roberts Pacific Co., of San Mateo was awarded a $660,992 building construction pact in recent weeks and already has pushed the project to a point where the shape of the box-like structure can be seen.

Crespi and Park Pacifica Schools will house up to 550 students each. Both will contain 15 classrooms, a library, multi-purpose room, kitchen, administrative space and a kindergarten room.

Similarly, the interiors will contain a limited number of partitions, some of which will be of a type that can be demounted by the custodial staff to fill particular instructional or special-activity needs, Munt explained.

Over-all, the Crespi plant will have 35,378 square feet; Park Pacifica, 33,368.

The site preparation for Park Pacifica was not as complex as that for Crespi, with the Park Pacifica cost coming to only $80,000 in contrast.

The Park Pacifica facility is being consturcted by the Pacific Coast Builders Co. of San Francisco, which was awarded the contract on a $716,260 bid.

Munt said in both plants, the multi-purpose room will be in the center with four wings jutting out from each side.

Brisbane Sets Garbage Vote

A regular meeting of the Brisbane City Council started quietly enough Monday night, but ended in a near donneybrook with a former councilman being "escorted" from the meeting by two husky policemen.

The verbal exchange, which led to the ousting of Ernest D. Conway from the council chambers came shortly before a motion was made setting the date for a special city-wide election.

The election, set for October 17, will either uphold the present city ordinance prohibiting dumping of garbage at Sierra Point, or wipe the law off the books, paving the way for continued dumping by San Francisco scavenger at the site.

Conway, a long-time opponent of dumping within the city limits, demanded to be heard on the subject and was ruled out of order by Mayor Dale With.

Bedlam broke out with several persons shouting demands back and forth.

When Conway would not sit down, and continued shouting his demands, Mayor With ordered Police Chief Lillard Dyer to "remove him from the room."

Dr. Paul Goercke, president of the Brisbane Citizens' for Civic Progress, described the council scene as "utter confusion with neighbors yelling at each other and the council."

"Accusations were being tossed around . . . and all because the council refused to answer questions on the subject. All they did was sit in complete silence," Georcke said.

Georcke was instrumental in having the city "vote out" the garbage during a referendum election in that city some two years ago.

Since that time, Brisbane has expended more than $21,000 in legal fees to attorney Caspar Weinberger to defend the law in one court after another.

A seemingly empty victory was won recently when a Superior Court judge upheld the ordinance, thus prohibiting further dumping at the court.

While the matter was being appealed, the scavengers continued dumpnig in the 105-acre site.

"We, (the BCCP) are appalled, after having spent so much money, that the council could think of taking this course of action," Georcke said.

He said it was "unfortunate" that Brisbane had "a council that will not enforce the laws of the city, by their own choice."

The recent decision to hold a special election came after former mayor James Williams presented a petition containing 561 names of registered voters demanding the garbage matter be put on the ballot for reconsideration by citizens.

$5,605,490 Daly City Budget Adopted

9-Cent Tax Increase Is Ordered

The Daly City Council adopted a $5,605,490 budget — up $194,206 over last year — during its regular meeting Monday night.

In order to support what was described as "an extremely tight" budget the tax rate was raised nine cents, to $1.31 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Manager Edward Frank said some $470,000 had been hacked from the original budget figure during a series of meetings between staff and the council "in order to keep the tax rate increase to a minimum."

Along with the new budget the council approved pay hikes for city employes ranging from 4½ to 5½ per cent, depending on the salary range.

The salary increases accounted for some $107,500 in the new budget, Manager Frank explained.

But the council ignored the recommendation of the city's Personnel Board which would have abolished the so-called "residency requirement" of city employes.

No action was taken on the matter and the stipualtion that all city employes must live in Daly City stayed in effect.

The new budget also provides for the position of assistant city planner —a position requested by present City Planner Edward Lawson to aid him in planning for the future growth of the city.

The council directed City Manager Frank to lower the requirement for three weeks' paid vacation from seven to six years.

Funds were also budgeted to provide $2,000 in life insurance for employes, effective January 1, 1968.

"Decreased revenues during the past year, which depleted previously anticipated year-end surplus, and the continued increase in costs of salaries, services and materials, made it necessary to increase the tax rate by nine cents," Frank explained.

He said conservative revenue estimates for the coming year (1968) coupled with the lack of a large increase in assessed valuation "likewise had a bearing on the need for the increase."

A breakdown of the budget disclosed $1,650,030 would be used for materials and supplies; $2,760,420 for governmental salaries.

District and the Roman Catholic Church, owners of property adjacent to the range, have served notice on the shooters, he said.

"Everybody tells us to get our access road from someone else," Fox said.

St. Clair, after promising to assist in whatever manner possible, told Fox "the American Indian faced the same problem and lost. You can't stop the encroachment of civilization."

City Manager C. W. Masonheimer sought to enlist the board's aid in protesting the State Legislature's last minute revision in the formula for distributing the new cigaret taxes last week.

"This revision, approved one-hour before adjournment Friday, cost the City of Pacifica more than $130,000," the manager said.

BARTD Still Studying Its Economy Plan

intact, although specific station and track plans have never been agreed upon either by BARTD or city officials.

During BARTD's regular directors meeting Thursday, there was no mention of what economic cuts would be made, or when.

Instead, President Adrien J. Falk directed the recommendations be sent back to the engineers for further "review" and discussion with BARTD's Administrative Committee.

The final recommendations are expected to be brought up before the directors again on August 24.

Following Thursday's meeting in which the directors awarded more than $50 million in system contracts — mostly in the East Bay — a spokesman said the board "could still go in any direction" in their effort to salvage an "operable" system.

Stan Thies, deputy director of information for BARTD, said the recommended engineering cuts "could all be accepted, or all tossed out," by the board at their next regular meeting.

"I only know that nothing is positive at this time regarding those cutbacks. We may even scrape together enough money ($110 million) to complete the entire system," Thies said.

Another BARTD official said he would "protest" the construction of the Daly City station "inasmuch as they are not in the district."

Some directors grumbled that while some stations which might be axed had voted for the BARTD bonds, "one station was located in a district that had not (Daly City.)"

At least one official defended construction of both the Hayward station and Daly City stations as important to the overall system.

BARTD Manager B. R. Stokes explained facilities at Hayward were geared for major mainenance of trains, while the terminus in Richmond was not.

Daly City's station will serve only as a "turn around" but is considered "a good revenue producer" for the system.

Two cities recommended for cuts in the system (BARTD uses the term 'deferred') have threatened to sue the district for "not living up to its agreement with the voters."

But BARTD's General Counsel Wallace P. Kaapcke, informed the directors he did not feel the cities had legal recourse.

Burglary Suspects

Pair Hurt In Chase of Car

Two young burglary suspects were seriously injured in South San Francisco Tuesday morning when their fleeing automobile crashed into two parked cars on San Mateo Avenue.

Injured in the wreck, which followed a chase at speeds up to 90 miles per hour, were Albert Amel Glaser, 19, of 767 St. Francis Boulevard, Daly City, and Thomas Eugene Nunn, 23, of 70 North Bayshore Drive, San Mateo.

The chase began about 4:15 a.m. when Officer Frank Young spotted the two youths in a parked car behind Ole's Carburetor and Electrical Shop at 120 El Camino Real in San Bruno.

Young, who was traveling south on El Camino Real, made a U-turn to check out the parked car, and the two youths fled north on El Camino as he slowed the patrol car to turn.

The suspects turned north on San Mateo Avenue, with Young in pursuit, and crashed into the parked cars in the 1300 block, just inside the South San Francisco city limits.

Both the suspect vehicle and the two parked cars were demolished by the impact, according to police.

Several hundred dollars worth of automotive parts, believed to have been taken from the car buretor shop, were found in the suspect car.

Both Glaser and Nunn were admitted for treatment of multiple fractures and possible other injuries at Peninsula Hospital, where they are listed in "fair" condition. They will be transfered under police guard to San Mateo County General Hospital later today.

Both men have been charged with burglary.

crease) cut back by state decree, rather than face the effects of an order to reduce the rate as it stood, before the increase.

Greenwood described the state manuever as "giving on one hand and taking away with the other."

Greenwood said the rate increase this yaar would reflect a $2.50 increase per each $1,000 of assessed valuation on tax blls in the district.

Actually, he declared, the new rate is five cents above the rate adopted two years ago. Trustees last year reduced that rate by 18 cents per $100 assessed value, he said.

Policy Set On Expenses

Trustees of the Jefferson Elementary School District in Daly City have adopted a firm policy concerning expenses to conferences attended by board members and district administrators.

The board last year curtailed all conference travel, pending a review of the policy, after a series of Post articles questioned the expense reporting of some board members.

The trustees and administrators, under the new policy will be allowed up to $35 daily each, while attending educational conferences and meetings.

This is the same policy under which the county operates.

level, thus making off-street parking a relatively simple matter.

Planners have shown that shoppers would rather not park on a slope and walk uphill to do their shopping. Especially not when they can pull into a parking space in front of a modern store and walk several feet down a tree-shaded mall to their favorite store.

On the plus side, Daly City has Mission Street — a six-lane thoroughfare that generates 100 times the traffic of San Bruno's small two lane San Mateo Avenue.

In the words of Councilman Frank Pacelli, "Mission Street could be another Wilshire Boulevard, lined with attractive shops."

Back as far as 1960, Pacelli "saw the writing on the wall" and prompted then — city engineer Bill Chapman to conduct a study of the Mission Street area.

"We had just finished a zoning study in the area and had come up with a "weak" master plan," Pacelli explained.

Although it was considered a weak plan by officials, the findings pointed up the need for doing something about development — or re-development — at both the top and bottom of Mission Street.

Chapman's plan, backed by Pacelli, showed what areas would have to be razed and re-built as a shopping mall; construction of a retaining wall to hold back fill needed to level the entire area, and a complex of high-rise apartments.

The entire re-development project would encompass an area east of Mission down to the planned BART station, between Santa Barbara, Bepler and San Jose Streets.

It was hoped once the merchants started the program, other interests might move in for development of the high rise apartments.

While some merchants considered the plan a panacea to their decreasing sales, others labeled it "to ambitious" and turned away.

A questionnaire was circulated by the city to "fell out" the merchants affected by the redevelopment, along with landowners in the area.

The questions posed:

"Are you interested in doing something about redevelopment in your area?"

"Is there a need for off-street parking?"

"Would you be willing to participate in a study group formed among businesses?"

To these and other similar questions, the overwhelming majority answered "yes."

What killed the proposed plan was the final question on the form:

"Would you be willing to participate financially in this matter (in other words submit to higher assessments)?"

The thought that assessments might rise obviously hit a nerve and many businessmen and absentee landowners dropped the proposal "like a hot potato."

The matter slowly slipped into a quiet grave.

Last week, a local businessman, George Kurchhubel, unexpectedly exhumed the matter at a meeting of the city council, when he pleaded for "something to be done about the top of the hill."

Kurchhubel, who owns a business known as The Top of The Hill, suggested the center island be cut to allow more ready access by traffic in the area.

Later, Councilman Frank Pacelli said the island cut "was not the answer."

"It will take more planning, money and more time to rejuvenate this area," Pacelli said. "I can only say that the council will do everything in its power to arrive at an answer to this problem."

Kirchhubel's request to the council renewed Pacelli's interest in the matter and he called upon his fellow councilmen to "do some serious thinking on this increasing problem along Mission Street."

Pacelli said the city now has a full-time planning expert, Edward Lawson, plus a federal grant ($70,000) funded for a General Plan to show where the city is going and how it should get there, "along with a council that is willing to go all the way with the merchants."

Two years ago the city council passed a moratorium on zoning in the east-of-Mission street area.

The moratorium was designed to give the city a "breather" time to sit back and see what will develop in the adjoining areas, such as San Bruno Mountain and the immediate area surrounding the BART station along Junipera Serra Boulevard, Mayor Bernard Lycett pointed out.

Lycett feels, as do other members of the council, that Mission Street "is perhaps our most important street" and must be developed further.

All feel the area could provide a much higher tax revenue for the city, once business is stimulated in that area.

With the naming of Lawrence Livingston, Jr., a noted planning consultant, to expedite the city's General Plan, both Pacelli and Lycett consider it "only a matter of time" before a clear-cut, positive approach will be taken to re-development in the area.

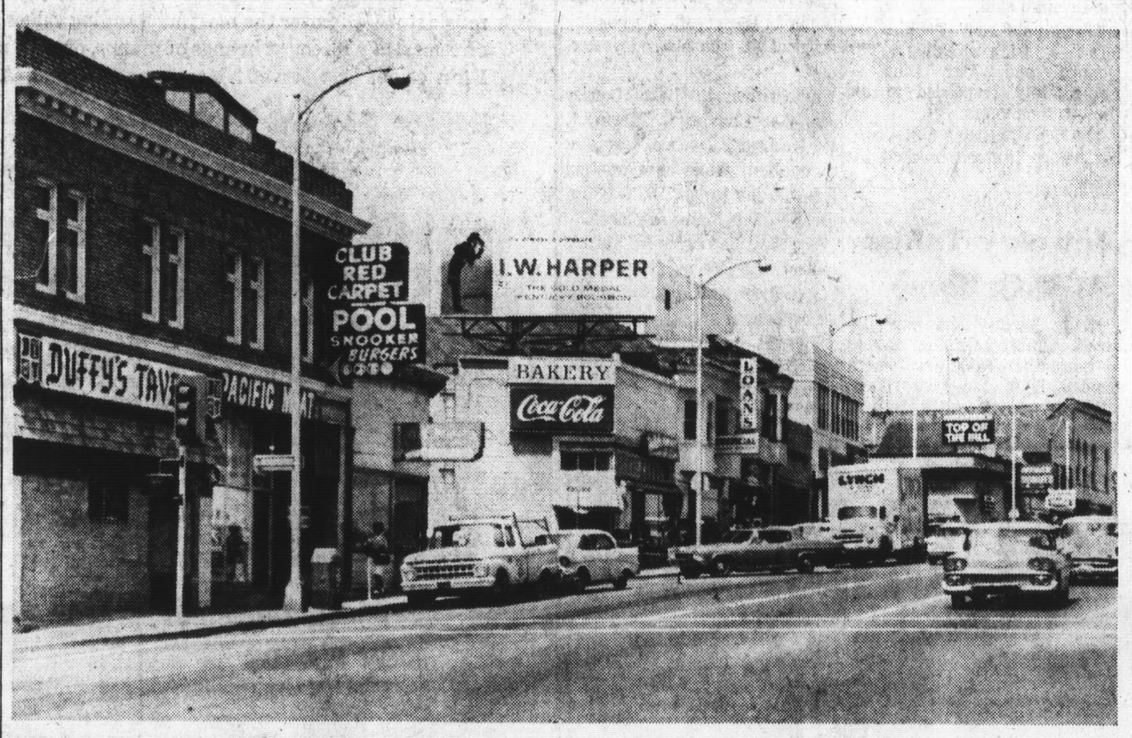
Where will the required funds for this redevelopment come from?

"It's impossible to say at this time," Pacelli said. "Perhaps from Federal grants, private interests. Who knows? What is important is that we have a General Plan so we can qualify for some of these funds when they are available—that's an important first step."

The council will soon name a 50 member blue ribbon committee comprised of local businessmen, landowners and "interested citizens" to submit recommendations during formulation of the General Plan.

It is hoped that with the aid of this new committee ideas will blossom concerning not only the Mission Street area, but other sections of Daly City, Pacelli said.

"These things aren't going to happen overnight. They will require time and much patience, a top notch job of selling landowners and businessmen on what they can do for them and their city," Pacelli said.



TOP OF THE HILL — Merchants in the Top of the Hill area of Mission Street have been ringing up less and less sales in recent years. Some officials feel the area should be razed and rebuilt as an attractive shopping mall to compete with the newer "shopping complexes" sprouting up in other areas of Daly City.

Funds for SSF Bilingual Head Start Plan Endorsed

Establishment of a bilingual head start program in South San Francisco was endorsed last week by the Human Resources Commission.

George T. Riley, acting director, said federal anti-poverty funds intended originally for other projects could be used for the school, which would place emphasis on pre-school training and orientation of children of Mexican-American families.

The program could possibly make use of $9,000 allocated for the San Mateo Parent's Nursery School, which rejected the grant, and excess funds earmarked for the Redwood City Community Play Center, which got a larger allocation than it requested, Riley told the commission.

Riley said if he can make the necessary arrangements, he will ask for a transfer of funds next month.

Commissioner Antonio Montoya of South San Francisco told the board that a voluntary pre-school training program is being operated in the community with teachers and parents donating their time. He said there is a great need for an expanded program and estimated that the head start program could reach as many as 50 children.

"We have found," Montoya said, "that Juanito can't read or write Spanish, let alone English."

By DONALD C. WAITE

THAT FINISHING TOUCH

Have you ever visited a home where they have nice furniture with an attractive living room, dining room and bedroom — yet there was still something lacking?

It may have lacked that certain something which decorators call "the finishing touch."

It's exactly at this point where imagination and ingenuity are most needed; where a little "flair" goes a long way. This is often the difference between ordinary furnishing and beautiful decorating.

There are many ways to accomplish the "finishing touch." Here are just a few: Where you have both white walls and white draperies, a valance or cornice in a contrasting color may add life to your room.

When most of your living room has neutral colors, try replacing your pictures with some containing daring, bright colors.

Place a mirror in your room where it will reflect the outdoors and add color and size to your room.

If the width of your room permits, place your sofa a foot or two away from the wall and put a decorative, eye-catching screen against the wall.

These are just a few ideas. For more ideas for your home we invite you to stop in and visit with us. Or, just come in and browse. There's no obligation.

Our decorators here at Sterling Furniture in Westlake Shopping Center, are at your service no matter what your decorating problem may be. We are open Wednesday and Friday evenings 'til 9 p.m. for your shopping convenience or call PL 6-7500.

Church Gains Delay In SSF Hearing

A scheduled public hearing on the Roman Catholic Church application for a church-school complex use permit in South San Francisco has been postponed until October, officials said today.

Planning commissioners rescheduled the hearing, which was to have been held tonight, at the request of City Attorney John Noonan and representatives of the San Francisco Archdiocese, according to City Planner Daniel Pass.

Residents to Pay For War on Rats

The County Board of supervisors moved in on those Daly City rats.

The board authorized the county health department to kill the rats that infest the sewers in a small unincorporated area adjoining the city and to bill the 27 homeowners for the cost.

Then, as a long-range solution, the supervisors initiated action to have the area annexed to the North San Mateo County Sanitation District.

Eugene Mason Howell, county health engineer, told the board that unless drastic action is taken the resident will soon find the rats invading their bathrooms by the way of their toilet bowls.

Howell recalled that he recommended three years ago that the area, which includes portions of Cordova Street, Canyon Drive and Baltimore Way, be annexed to the sanitation district. The owners would have no part of it, however, Howell said, because they have been getting a "free ride," paying nothing for sewer service or maintenance.

Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald, the board's representative on the sanitation district, asserted that the residents "are not assuming their responsibility to the community."

Fitzgerald said that two years ago a sewer overflowed into a home and the district volunteered to help the family in its hour of need. Now, he said the district is being sued for $10,000 damages by the family.

AUTO REPAIRS

'ABERDEEN PROVING GROUNDS, Md. — Private Dale C. Erickson, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Erickson, 40 Park Manor, Daly City, completed a 14-week automotive repair course at the Army Ordnance Center and School, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., July 14.

Pvt. Erickson was graduated from the College of San Mateo, in 1966.

His wife, Linda, lives at 90 Park Manor, Daly City.

Two Surfers Rescued At Linda Mar

A teen-age Stockton girl who tensed-up while surfing and the 18-year-old San Bruno boy who tired while trying to reach her were rescued by three veteran Pacifica surfers at Linda Mar Beach Sunday.

Pacific firemen said Valeri Southerland, 14, of 2205 Bristol Avenue, Stockton, was surfing behind the Wander In with a cousin.

The girls apparently got out too far. The cousin was able to reach the beach, but Miss Southerland was "caught between two waves," a fire department spokesman said.

William Hill, 18, of 820½ El Camino, San Bruno, attempted to aid the frightened girl, but became tired himself and "was in more trouble than she was," the fireman said.

Three "oldtime" Pacific surfers — Dick Keating, Tim Quance and Alex Dias — immediately responded to aid the two teen-agers.

The trio went back to the surfing before firemen reached the scene.

Jewelry Taken At D.C. Home

Men's jewelry and miscellaneous items of clothing, valued at more than $650, were stolen Sunday from the Leonard B. Hintermann home at 10 Pacifica Avenue, Daly City police report.

Chamber Backs Change in Voting

The Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors Thursday threw their support behind the North County Council of city in the fight to change the method of voting for supervisors.

Presently, county supervisors are required to live in a district, but run on an "at-large" ticket.

The North County Council of Cities wants the charter to be changed allowing supervisors to be voted into office from respective districts.

In other action, the chamber directed a letter be sent to Assemblyman Leo Ryan informing him of their support in constructing a Bay bridge crossing at Sierra Point, rather than four miles north at Hunters Point.

With the opening of the Guadalupe Canyon Parkway across San Bruno Mountain, the Sierra Point crossing would assist in smoother routing of traffic between concerned cities, the directors pointed out.

Dave Friedenberg said a "strong, unified front should be taken on this matter by the directors."

Five directors were named to the 1968 Nominating Committee, including chairman Bernard Lycett, Frank Pacelli, Kevin McDonald, Herb Sharp and Fred Martin.

The committee will submit a list of names to succeed present chamber officers next year.

D.C. Boy Is Killed

A Daly City boy was killed near Lakeport in Northern California as the result of a hunting accident, it was learned yesterday.

Authorities in Lake County said that Charles G. Starin, 7, 599 Westmoor Avenue, was shot by accident while on a hunting trip with his father, Dr. Gaylord Starin, a San Francisco dentist.

The boy is survived by his mother, La Verne; two brothers, Gerald and James, and a sister, Susan.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2 p.m. from the Jones Mortuary in Lakeport.

Interment will be at the Kelsyville Cemetery.

'Smut Issue'
An Underground Paper Assailed

By FRANK LaPIERRE

An enraged board of directors of the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce last week took up the subject of smut at San Francisco State College.

While one director, attorney Dave Friedenberg, advised that goings-on at the college did not legally concern the chamber and a "wait and see" attitude should be taken, board director and Daly City Mayor Bernard Lycett "stood up to be counted" on the subject.

What prompted emotional outbursts from several directors concerning alleged smut at San Francisco State was an underground school paper simply titled "Open Process."

At the bottom of the paper, printed and distributed to students at the college, was a photograph of a nude woman posing in a reclining position.

An accompanying article, penned by one Jefferson Poland, dealt openly with love and sex. So openly, in fact, that chamber manager Peter Markovich said, "I fell out of my chair when I read the story."

Poland is founder of the East Bay Sexual Freedom League and contributes to several similar papers in the area.

A cover letter written to the board of directors by Mrs. H. E. Vandever of Pinole, asked for whatever support the chamber could give in curbing this type of publication at California schools—even to writing to congressional representatives for passage of restrictive legislation.

According to Mrs. Vandever, the paper in question was temporarily suspended for three months (during the summer) by college president John Summerskill, but the ban had been ordered lifted.

In Summerskill's opinion the publication has not violated any existing administrative policies or codes at the college, Mrs. Vandever said.

Attached to the newspaper was "an improvisation by LeRoi Jones" which dealt with the ruthless killing of several Negroes by white policemen.

The play used what one director called "extremely basic language" on the part of the participants.

Mayor Lycett agreed with Mrs. Vandever and student body representatives who sent along the Jones' script that "something must be done to end this type of smut in our schools."

"It may not be legal for us (the chamber) to enter into something taking place across the county line in San Francisco, but this is a moral issue—something that affects all our children. You must draw a line somewhere. You must stand up and be counted in matters such as this. And I, for one, am standing up to be counted," Lycett said.

Lycett said he was tired "of this stuff always coming up before me'" and asked the chamber directors to act on the request.

The chamber directors unanimously backed president John Wuerthner's suggestion that a letter be sent to Assemblyman Leo Ryan outlining the chamber's feeling on the matter and that perhaps "legislation could be introduced to control similar out-and-out smut on state-wide college campuses."

KIDS TREE SNAKE—With all the talk of leopards running loose, birds flying wildly about and snakes slithering around the area, three Daly City youngsters—Tony Arrow, Gred Kurrell and his brother, Brad—thought they had spotted one of the slippery critters when they saw this stuffed python hanging from the branches of a tree near their Westlake home recently. Shortly after the photo was taken the trio "captured" the friendly python and dragged him home to be temporarily with their other toys. (Post Photo by Koska)

That 'Good Ship, Wreck'

DON GRIERSON, the Post's Obituary Consultant and Sports Makeup Editor — who's fast learning the difference between "stiffs" and "remains" and "Horsehide" and "casaba", has been touting himself as a true expert in the water-splashing art of sailboating.

He was, that is!

Ex-Mississippian Grierson embarked upon his boatsman career to further his reputation as the real sportsy type. He purchased a 16-foot craft.

If you, my friend, have a spare $300 (he'd probably settle for less!) there's a tremendous chance he'll part with his pride (and joy?) — aptly dubbed, "The Good Ship, Wreck".

Don's craft, less than six months old, is well used — not so much in the sense of the pleasure he's had, but more from the standpoint of the abuse it takes.

BUT, Let's go back to when he first got the craft and charted its maiden run.

"Hey!" he asked Post Political and Gossip Editor Frank LaPierre, "You wanna go sailing in my new 'ship' this Sunday?"

Good Sailor? . . .

"You a good sailor?" LaP cautiously inquired.

"Dunno," admitted Don, "Never been out before — but I'll learn by Sunday."

"Forget it!" shreiked the Mighty Frenchman.

So, LaP didn't go; Grierson did, spending considerable time out on the Bay — paddling and attempting to thumb his way home after the craft's center board became inoperative.

"It broke," Don said.

HE MADE obviously hasty repairs to "wreck" over the next couple of weeks and soon embarked upon another Bay Adventure with the confidence of an advanced novice.

Well, out in the middle, the center board became inoperative.

"It broke again." explained Grierson.

And, it also drifted far off course — as much as Captain-Navigator Grierson can guess. He eventually maneuvered the sailboat to a garbage dike, and he was obliged to "walk about five miles" through a garbage dump to reach the civilization of North Richmond.

We at the Post thought he'd have given up boating as a stinking mess, about then, but, undaunted, Grierson fixed the boat and took off on another excursion.

Last Wednesday, Don set out into the water once more, with one crewman, one lifejacket (for the Captain, of course) and a set of oars (obviously for the crew).

More Trouble . . .

The center board survived . . . but the mast didn't, as it came smashing down when a stay broke.

After four hours out on the Bay, Grierson and Crew were rescued by the Coast Guard, fine fellows that they are.

☆ ☆ ☆

DON'S greeting Thursday morning was not his usual, groggy, "Where's the coffee, man?" — rather:

"Hey, Will — Frank . . . Yuh wanna buy a sailboat? Cheap!"

Accuracy Is Challenged

SOME PEOPLE CAN'T seem to get ANYTHING right! And that goes for certain (other) news media. Just to keep the record straight; there is little doubt Daly City WILL GET its long-desired county service center, and courts. What type can best be situated here was the basis for a questionnaire sent out by County Manager E. R. Stallings — not whether D.C. would be the site for the buildings.

☆ ☆ ☆

AND HOW'D YA like to tell your friends you send the kids to a "Savage" school? It's really not all that bad! The school is named after William J. (Doc) Savage, an early California school pioneer — to be located at St. Francis Heights.

☆ ☆ ☆

SPEAKING OF THE SAVAGE school, the Jefferson School District just received some $104,500 for plans and specifications for the school, to be drawn up by architects McSweeney and Schuppel. The construction of the school was postponed last year because of a lack of seventh and eighth grade school children in the Serramonte area.

WHILE WE'RE ON THE SUBJECT of the Jefferson Elementary School District trustees decided they can travel again. A few months ago the trustees curtailed further travel (to conferences) following complaints from the general public and former trustee Peter Galiano regarding expenses. They now have what one trustee called "a sensible program" governing travel.

AFTER MORE THAN two years, the D.C.-Colma Chamber of Commerce Sign Committee team of Jack Kendree and Joe Rohl finally came up with a site for a signboard designed to display civic organization emblems. The site was alongside the Junipera Serra Freeway approach to Daly City — and the State turned the request down cold. Back scouting for sites fellas

ODD GOINGS ON — Police have received several calls (our grapevine tells us) concerning some odd happenings along the ocean front near Thornton Beach. But a search of the area has so far failed to bear fruit.

☆ ☆ ☆

QUESTION OF THE WEEK — Why doesn't someone clean up that mess on the east side of Park Merced Avenue next to the Garden Village School?

☆ ☆ ☆

WE'RE STILL WAITING — For that promised overpass in South San Francisco. We predicted it wouldn't be built this year — and it won't. That's the latest word on the matter. Lotsa politicians got lotsa publicity out of the overpass — now how about producing? We're not from Missouri, but we gotta be shown.

AN INFORMAL JAUNT to the Nevada side of Lake Tahoe this past weekend produced some rather startling facts: The beautiful lake is indeed being polluted — with California money (mine); the casinos are not designed to aid the financially handicapped and at least one North County city was well-represented.

Matter of fact, the D.C. Chamber was there in the likeness of manager (and part-time "G" Man) Pete Markovich. The cigar-chomping golfer and gambler (we SAID he was a "G" man) faired better at Incline Golf Course with a 74 than he did at the casino. He wasn't able to sandbag Harvey's tables and says he would rather talk about other things.

Harvey's Hardest Worker, Lee DeLauer, between harried phone calls to seemingly every nook and cranny of the plush resort soothing upset patrons, managed to inform us he wasn't much on welcoming golfers — but gamblers? That's something else! And if you use Pete's "system" up at the Lake, Lee will roll out the Red Carpet for you. Nuf said

REMEMBER THAT SWEATY PALMS routine a certain airline tried out for a couple months, and caused all sorts of PR types to quit over? Well, we've traced at least one of the opponents of the ad campaign — Al Kay — to his new offices with CPAL. We only mention this because we've known Al through ten years, four countries, and three airlines — PanAm, PA, CPAL. What's that got to do with sweaty palms? Don't you 'member the first day on the job?

☆ ☆ ☆

ANOTHER PAIR OF TRAVELERS — Jim and Diana Cralle are seriously thinking about taking language lessons before making any more trips—especially south of the border. They found out the hard way (in the pocketbook) that "libre" means free and "quata" means toll. On Mexico's Highway One between Tijuana and Ensenada there is a sign pointing in different directions with appropriate markings. If you take the "quata" road the first tolltaker grabs off 60 cents, the second toll is 80 cents and the final 65 mile charge is a healthy $1.

SICK CALL DEPT. — D.C. city treasurer and Jefferson School trustee Joe Lewkowitz is in the hospital at Mary's Help following painful leg surgery. Joe is expected to be on the sick list for at least two months.

SAMUEL CHANDLER
(Daly City Librarian)

View of Vietnam Action

"Putting aside American vital interests and the honoring of treaties we must remember that we are also in Vietnam for humanitarian reasons. There are people there . . . be it one million or three million or 10-million . . . who were heard crying out for help. We responded, along with the Australians, New Zealanders, Thais, Filipinos and the South Koreans."

Thus begins Chet Huntley's introduction to Gordon Baxter's "13913, Vietnam: Search and Destroy." It is a book that is advertised as an attempt to help the doubting American find answers that will help him understand why."

It is more than this, however. It is a close-up view of the action in Vietnam. It is a collection of pictures, complemented by a narrative that shows American fighting men as they are — kind, compassionate — but sometimes brutal; courageous but sometimes full of fear.

☆ ☆ ☆

GORDON BAXTER went to Vietnam to report the war from where the shooting is. Upon landing in Saigon he began to see things that Americans had not realized. There is no front in this war and no rear; the enemy is all about; "among us and a part of us . . . He may be the taxi driver the pedicab man, the guy at the bar next to you, the bartender. As the saying goes, 'farmer by day, VC at night.'"

Ground Rules . . .

As a result there are a few advisable ground rules. "Don't sit in the front booth at the bar. Sit in the back. When they roll the grenade in it just gets the front customers. And don't stand in front of the window. When the bombs go off they blow the splintered glass outward."

Baxter observes that this war has spawned a new generation of American fighting men. They have their own slang and their own nonregulation gear. They have to learn to live without nightmares that bring back the memories of the Viet Cong infiltrators that they have killed.

THEY HAVE to realize that the enemy may be very young as in the ancient Oriental wars. By tradition, by training, the Viet Cong soldier knows nothing of politics except what his squad leader or political leader has taught him. He is given an assignment and believes he must complete it. Meanwhile he is taught that if he is captured he will be forced to suffer pain, even death.

Hot Junk . . .

In this war Americans are forced by the lack of land to use air fields that are vulnerable to the enemy. Overnight a million dollars worth of airplanes is reduced to hot junk. An airplane of World War II design, "The Skyraider" is proving most useful. It is tough, able to absorb a lot of ground fire, and carry its own weight in armament.

Much of Baxter's book relates his observations while serving with the India Company, 3rd Battalion, 1st Marines in the village of Loc Tan. Carefully he records the action on the 13th day of February when 13 men were lost.

IN THIS village where there are no roads, no radios, no telephones and no newspapers, the people don't know what's happening in Hanoi or Saigon and have never heard of New York or Moscow.

American soldiers are introducing the benefits of civilization. Nine thousand South Vietnamese victims of war and disease were given medical treatment, many for the first times in their lives. Countless numbers have been fed nourishing food and many provided with clothing.

"This aspect of our program in Vietnam is not publicized in Vietnam or in the United States. Bring freedom and security to a backward people doesn't make good copy. But all the flaws in the operation do. No one tells of the doctors who are curing tuberculosis, malaria, and insect bites."

☆ ☆ ☆

IN THIS WAR no one has written of the GI's who have given security to the native children and rebuilt the homes of the war victims. To date the Vietnam War has not attracted an Ernie Pyle or a Marguerite Higgins. No one has praised the GI's for their dedication to the cause of world wide freedom.

BARBARA BLADEN
(Post Drama Critic)

Beatle Creation

James Clavell who wrote, produced and directed "To Sir With Love," now at the Coronet Theater claims the film starring Sidney Poitier "hopefully has no racial overtones."

"It's a story about a nice guy who helped some troubled young people. We want the audience to forget that Sidney is black and the kids are white. That's the whole point of my story and the film doesn't close the door on a potential romance with another teacher, who happens to be white. It ends on an upbeat note, with a feeling of hope and promise," the former British citizen explained.

The film script is based on the 1955 best selling book by E. R. Braithwaite about youngsters in a tough London school who turn their hostility into love under the tutelage of a sympathetic and sensitive teacher.

"There have been comparison with 'Up The Down Staircase' because they were both shown at the Moscow Film Festival. Ours was made first and Sidney and I believed in the film so much, we did it without salary, only accepting expenses and a percentage."

BECAUSE THE BOOK WAS PRE-BEATLES, Clvell did quite a bit of changing to bring the story into contemporary focus. He claims the Beatles created an enormous social revolution among young people.

"There's as much difference as between B.C. and A.D., in that respect. It would be impossible to do a credible film about youngsters today without understanding the tremendous influence which the Beatles have exerted."

If the name Clavell is familiar, but you can't place it specifically, it's because the man is versatile and wears many creative hats. He is the author of the best selling novel "Tai-Pan" which has been bought by a movie company, wrote the film version of "The Great Escape," wrote of his experiences as a Japanese prisoner-of-war in Changi prison in Singapore in "King Rat" and broke into movies with "Five Days To Hell," "Walk Like a Dragon," and "Satan Bug."

☆ ☆ ☆

HE'S NOW AN EXPERT ON WHAT CAN POSSIBLY GO WRONG in any of his fields of endeavor. Evidently everyone possible went wrong in making "To Sir With Love." There wasn't enough money, Poitier wasn't available at the time they wanted, the weather was bad and Clavell was working with 200 completely inexperienced youngsters of which 28 were finally used.

"Neville Brand told me on my first film job that the first rule of acting is to listen. I told this to my guys and dollies and it worked. Sidney is like a race horse, thoroughbred and flighty and it was a tremendous opportunity for the kids to watch such a super technician as well as make money and have the chance of being seen on the screen."

Language Nonsense

Increasing demands of speedy passage for motor traffic have inflicted a few new words on the over-burdened dictionaries — such as "freeway" and "expressway"—and have revived an old one in the form of "turnpike."

Turnpike is a very old word now back in general use as a term for toll roads. The Oxford English Dictionary traces its use back to the Middle Ages, when it was a spiked barrier across a road or passage as a defense against sudden attack, "especially of men on horseback."

Later a turnpike became a hinged bar used to prevent horses and vehicles from entering on a road until the owner had paid the toll. Turnpikes were introduced on this continent in the late eighteenth century. So much for history.

Examples of the changing vocabulary of today's road builders include the word "circumurban." This is a freeway, which rings a city, taking traffic away from the center and providing easier access to outlying districts.

But this sort of nonsense with the language cannot be countenanced. "Expressway" is expressive enough.

(Better Business Bureau)

Confidence Needed

A business community cannot survive without the confidence of its customers. Business today, faced with growing governmental paternalism, has to do a better job of self-regulation in its advertising and selling.

The federal government's first involvement in regulating business was to curb monopolistic abuse. It is a serious question today whether the victim of government regulation will be healthy business competition, not monopoly.

WITH the consumer a "political ecstasy . . . a politically distinct and disgruntled majority group made up of everybody" (and who hasn't experienced one or two disturbing shopping experiences?), business must do more to inform both government and the buying public concerning the vast strides that are being made in the interest of the consumer.

A national office has been opened in Washington, D. C. by the Better Business Bureaus which will provide federal officials for the first time with reliable data based on more than three million consumer contacts a year.

It will also offer facts on how business regulates its market place activities in the public interest and report back to business on government activities and plans affecting business-government relations.

Barbershop Fire, Threat Is Probed

Police are investigating a possible link between a telephoned threat to a Burlingame barbershop owner, and a San Bruno barbershop, which burned out in "suspicious" circumstances. Both shops have had union troubles.

Althought they have no suspects, San Bruno fire officials have labelled as "suspicious," a fire of undertermined origin that broke out in a barbershop last Wednesday at 185 El Camino Real.

The firemen said a hole in the barber shop's window was noticed by both the patrolling police officer who discovered the blaze at 1:38 a.m. and firemen when they arrived soon after.

A fire department spokesman said that in every case where there is a broken window not caused by the fire itself the blaze is considered to be a "suspicious fire."

Fire officials said the business, open only about six months, was a nonunion shop owned by William Draper. It had been picketed recently, the fire spokesman said.

The interior was fully engulfed when firemen arrived.

All contents were lost and damage was "roughly estimated" at $4,000, to both the interior of the structure and contents.

In Burlingame, Tony DeMarco, owner of a shop at 1152 Howard Avenue, told officers he had received a phone call, in which a male voice said:

"Tony DeMarco, if I were you, I would take a ride up to that shop in San Bruno."

DeMarco, who also operates a shop in Millbrae, told police he was afraid someone would chuck a "Molotov cocktail" through his window, and perhaps do injury to the two little old ladies who reside upstairs.

Police ordered passing patrol cars to keep an eye on the cutrate establishment.

Two Injured At San Bruno

Two persons were injured last Wednesday in an accident on El Camino Real in San Bruno.

Robert M. Bybee, 1730 Santa Lucia Avenue, San Bruno, and Judy Chiappari, 1691 Parksview, South San Francisco, were treated for head injuries at Peninsula Hospital after Bybee's car struck the rear of a vehicle driven by Michael Murray, 706 Southwood Drive, South San Francisco, about 9:30 p.m.

Police said Murray stopped to turn into a driveway and Bybee's vehicle struck the rear of his car. Miss Chiappari was a passenger in the Bybee vehicle.

EC Teacher In Work Program

Miss Karen Anderson, English instructor at El Camino High School, has been selected by San Francisco State College to participate in its special Work Experience Internship Program during the summer session. Miss Anderson is one of 65 chosen for the program.

The El Camino teacher is enrolled for a period of six weeks in an on-the-job experience, designed to bring teachers up to date on business practices. The work experience is coupled with evening seminars at the college.

Giants Are Traders

With our column on Willie Ritchie running last week space problems prevented us from citing localites who've been making awfully good: Pacifica's Rich Morales broke in at shortstop with the pennant bound (maybe) Chicago White Sox, San Mateo's Pat Winslow won the Pan Am games women's pentathon, Steve Oppermann of Daly City ran third in the Western Open behind Jack Nicklaus and Doug Sanders, a couple of pretty fair country golfers, and Pacifica's Little leaguers took their first tournament championship in eight years when they nailed the lid on the District 52 tournament.

BASEBALL THOUGHTS: We'll admit to being one of the prime complainers about any Cepeda trade, but before any of us unthinkingly call the Giants stupid traders, let's not forget the many good swaps they've pulled just since they've been in San Francisco. Without doing any exhaustive research, off-hand we can think of the following:

Gave the White Sox pitchers Ed Fisher and Dom Zanni and first baseman-outfield Bob Farley for Billy Pierce and Don Larsen. Fisher did eventually help the White Sox, but they never won a pennant with him and the Giants did with Pierce and Larsen. That was the year Billy was undefeated (12 wins) at Candlestick.

People always complain about the trading away of Bill White, to St. Louis but forget that not only did he have Cepeda (and a yeor later, he would have had McCovey) to buck, but also that the Giants received Sam Jones, who in winning 19 games that year (1959) almost singlehandedly brought the Giants a pennant — which was their reason for making the trade.

Gave catcher Roger McCardell and outfielder Jackie Brandt to Baltimore for pitchers Billy Loes, Gordon Jones and Billy O'Dell. The only one in the trade who ever came through was O'Dell. With 19 wins, he was one of the main cogs in the '62 pennant winner.

Billy Hoeft, Ed Baily, Ernie Bowman and Felipe Alou to Milwaukee (Atlanta) for pitchers Bob Shaw and Bob Hendley and catcher Del Crandell. True, Alou went on to achieve his potential at Milwaukee, but the Giants didn't need outfielders and did need pitching. Without Shaw's 16 wins in '65, the Giants might have been a second division team.

One other. Catcher Bob Schmidt, infielder Don Blasingame, and pitcher Sherman Jones to Cincinnati for Ed Bailey. None of others did a thing, but Bailey had one of his two greatest years in '63, and was a key to keeping the Giants in contention that season.

Several weeks ago Dick Groat said something that many analysts overlook when they're figuring the "paper" chances (looking up past individual records) of a team. Groat said, and quite rightly, that for a team to win a pennant five or six players must be having their best seasons. Add luck with injuries and you have just about the entire method of how to win at baseball without really trying.

There's a curious bit of logic in which baseball experts often indulge to determine the "true worth" of teams or establish axioms, which has always fascinated us. That's the preoccupation with performances against second division teams.

"You gotta beat the second division teams to win the pennant," they'll stay, or "They're not really that strong. All they can beat is the second division teams."

The basic problem, as we see it, is that nobody's ever really determined just what a second division team is. It's not enough to say it's a team which comes in below fourth (or fifth, if you're of that school). Oh, there are some historically clean-cut cases — the old St. Louis Browns, for instance, the contemporary Athletics (or the old ones, for that matter), The Astros, and the inevitable Mets.

To better explain what we mean, let's take a hypothetical case:

Team A finishes third, Team B finishes seventh. Team A beat team B 16 out of 18. So, say the experts, team A would not have been a first division team if they hadn't of beaten the patsy Team B. But they omit the fact that Team B would have possibly finished fourth or fifth if it had been able to even split with team A.

In other words, against the rest of the league, Team B played reasonably good baseball, but because it finished seventh it has the appearance of having played bad baseball against the entire league.

Just as such judgment is unfair to Team B, so is a judgment that Team A could only beat the patsies conversely unfair, because team A did, indeed, play superb baseball against a club which most other teams in the league found fairly difficult to beat.

What we're trying to say is that the final standings are the best determinant of a team's total worth. There should be no qualifications.

Hyped up baseball, with the function of the shrunken minors now solely to feed kiss to the big leagues with all possible expediency, has killed what was once a very honorable profession a career minor leaguer.

Only a few vets are now kept, either to fill rosters or to act as part-time coaches. But there was a time when many players spent their lives happily in the minors, and made good livings. Some of them just didn't have major league ability. Some did but preferred to stay nearer home. Don't forget, the biggies didn't always have pension plans and travel by jet. Some — we remember, off hand, the Seals' Ferris Fain and Oakland's Les Scarsella — actually made more money in the minors. When Fain was finally drafted by the Athletics in 1947, he took a pay cut.

Those fans and young players who think it's unfair of the parent clubs to put the kids through the torture of bus travel and other inconveniences in the low minors miss the point. That hardship is as much a part of the traning as learnng to hit a curve. If a kid doesn't have the guts to fight bumpy roads and cold showers, figure the big teams, he won't have the nerve to face the pressure of a knock-down pitch or a pennant drive.

Sudden extra thought: Baseball is the only major spectator sport wherein the woman fan has made any significant inroads. FOR THISE WHO LIKE STATISTICS: The Giants are always being needled about their incapacity to take the close ones, but in 1966 only the Dodgers, in the NL, had a better record than the Giants in one-run decisions and extra-inning games . . . Believe it or ot, at this writing Tom Haller has the second highest total of extra base hits among the Giants.

TAG LINE: Just so the football fans can't say we ignore them, former San Francisco State split end Art Haskins is currently on the roster of the new San Jose Apaches, who this year become part of the Continental Football League, Western Division, a minor league professional football loop, the Apaches will in all liklihood act as a farm team for the 49'ers.

D. C. Playground Summary

Games, sports, skills practice and special activities of all kinds have been part of the vast summer program offered the children of Daly City. The Department of Recreation Summer Program, conducted on 23 supervised facilities, is rapidly drawing to a close.

Midway School, by Mike Ciardella: Midway hald another successful Bar-b-que last Friday. Ike Allmond was the "stomach king" eating two hamburgers, one hot dog and a minute steak. Bill Fischer has become the strikeout king of Midway School. His closest challenger is Larry Miller. Everyday from 2 to 4 p.m. Midway's Recreation Room is open. Games such as paddle pool, ping pong, checkers, Sorry, Carroms and dominos are played. Some of the youngsters who participate regularly in these games are: Norie, Penny, Rickie, David, and Jean Turnbull, also Ray (Skeeter) Johnson, Rickie Johnson and Jim Ransey. Carl Braboy and Debra Leasau have been selected boy and girl of the week by the Recreation Leader and Aide at Midway School.

Frankfort Park, by Dan Drew: William Pegg reigns as carroms champ of Frankfort Park. He defeated all challengers and looks solid to retain this championship this week.

Barbara Weber won the paddle pool championship when she nosed out GiGi Daooli in the final game of the close series.

A checkers tournament is in progress at the park. All children are welcome to enter.

Westmoor High School, by Bob Celeste: Culminating last week's activities was a basketball one-man hunch league. Twenty boys participated, with tournament awards being given to Tom Gibbons, Jim McCarthy, Bob Trapp and Mark Artigo. Relays were also participated in by numerous boys and girls on Wednesday. They proved to be very enjoyable with new and better relays being planned for next week. Besides the wrestling and tumbling activities at the gym ... badminton, volleyball and handball are now being offered.

Soccer Clinic, by Bob Celeste and Tom Martinez: Last Friday the Westmoor Park-Marchbanks Park Soccer Clinics clashed in an interclinic game which saw Westmoor totally dominate the game offensively and Marchbanks the stronger on defense. The final outcome was a 5-4 in favor of Westmoor. Outstanding players for the winning Westmoor team included Tom Gibbons, Jim Fretas, Mark Artigo, Larry Delea, K Milton, Brendan Milton, Chris Daly. The defensive stalwart for Marchbanks was Rany Baptista.

Jefferson Elementary, by Carol Costa: The playground softball team split a double header with Colma. Members of the softball team who participated in the game were: Dino Landi, pitcher; Mario Landi, left field; John Gondon, second base; Gino Garibaldi, third base; Paul Nanini, short stop; Gordon Green, first base; Mike Younger, and Jim Devlin, catcher; Steve Weaver, centerfielder; Nick Barnes, left field; and Shaley Themolaus, right field. Little Jeff lost the first game by a close score of 9-8 but came back strong in the second game to defeat Colma 5-2. Nick Barnes was the outstanding player of the day with a batting record of 7 for 8. Gino Garibaldi in the second tame, hit Little Jeff's first home run.

Thanks to these girls, the all-girl softball game was a success: Joan McDermott, Terry MacDougall, Christine and Angela Schoenstein, Marianne Bush, Lisa Esmarch and Linda Sylvester.

All the morning activities are planned towards the 7-10-year age group. They may participate in games like kickball, softball, and basketball thereby gaining practice and experience.

Lincoln Park, by Andy Foley: Competition highlights the action at Lincoln Park. The spirit to win and place within the framework or good sportsmanship, in the weekly tournaments supplies most of the enjoyment. Every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, children compete in checkers, paddle pool and carroms. Every tournament finds children trying to accumulate place points for the summer ending tournament of champions. Merit points are first place-5 points; second place—3 points; third place worth 1 point. An accumulation of 12 total points is needed to wualify for the final tournament.

Thus far the leading point-getters are Ira Fern and Clemeth Williams, with 26 and 27 points respectively. Other point meritors are Cornell Williams, 15 points; Andy Driscoll, 11 points; Richard Fern, Joanne Berry and Danny Mitchell with 5 points; Anita Olsen, Kenneth Danridge and John Olsen with 3 points and Bill Bailey with 2 points. Outstanding performances are found in the Williams Bros., Clemeth and Cornell, who have skillfully dominated the paddle pool and checkers tournaments respectively.

Panorama School, by Ken Liss: George Ginilo and Matt Frugoli were the champion and runner-up respectively in the playground's carrom championship. Panorama had a barbecue on Thursdy nd it was by far the year's most successful special event.

Westmoor Park, by Nancy Kaye: Flash!! Outstanding Recreation Leader, David G. Barry III, has left the Daly City Recreation Department for an administrative position with the Pacifica Recreation Department. Westmoor Park youngsters (where Dave has been leader for three years) will miss him but the park activities will be continued by two equally qualified and experienced people, leader Nancy Kaye and Aide Mike Chelone. Nancy and Mike are also planning a special "Hippie Day" this Friday. All youngsters are encouraged to go and join the fun and games. They are asked to bring their "psychedelicatessen" sandwiches and stay all day.

Palisades Park, by Steve Wilson: Jim O'Meara became Palisades Park's new Skiffle Ball champion when he defeated Bobby Rebolini, 8-4. Former champ Dan McVeigh was upset by Rebolini, the tourney's "Cinderella Kid," 3-2 in the semi-finals. Every Wednesday at 2 p.m. Palisades holds its "Weekly Weeny Roast."

Colma School, by Roy Reitz: New activities have been introduced at Colma School and these include volleyball, badminton, tennis instruction and archery instruction (given on Friday night). A different activity is offered each night during the week (6:30 to 8:30 p.m.) and thus far the program has been a fine success. Volleyball games have generated alot of enthusiasm as a team made up of ralph Fonseca, Jim Macchi, Ray Montalbano, Debbi Brown, Jackie and Janice Jardin, Linda Wendt, and Irma Villa has been the toughest to beat in competition. In tennis, a number of people are showing promise. Among these are Tommy O'Shea, Linda Wendt and Mike Passaglia. Colma Junior High School softball team will play Little Jeff today and this promises to be a big battle. The Colma team will be led by Nick Barnes, Chinto Forseca and Ted Wendt. This team will be out to play as well as the Colma High School team, whose members have helped organize and drill the smaller team.

Olympia School, by Fred Steigerwald: Last week a new sensational game was discovered at Olympia: throwing the Frisbee. The frisbee resembles a flying saucer and is very good for developing new games. Robin Moore was the first person to bring a frisbee. Since she started, Bob Borromi, Ken Austin and many others have joined in.

War Memorial Community Center, by Patsy Walker: The War Memorial Center's Special "Children's Playhouse" attracted over 80 little youngsters and their older brothers or sisters. A specially devised badminton game was played with the older youngsters supervising the younger noes. Placing first in the badminton event was Sandy Boux, Wanda Miller placed second, Mike Geyer came in third; fourth place went to Laurie Mathey. Some of the other participants were Wayne Webb, David Timmy, Karen an Jackie Benders, Mike and Mark Gerlack, Debbie Boux, Karen and Kirby Webb, Rtia, Denise and Jackie Miller, Mary Denius, Sherri Martin.

Westmoor High School Gym, by Barbara Howser: This Friday evening, August 18, in the Westmoor High School Gymnasium, the Daly City Recreation Department will present "A Summer Happening." "A Summer Happening" will be a gymnastics and dance demonstration given by the Daly City Recreation Department sponsored Gymnastics and Theatrical Dance classes which have been held throughout the summer. The evening program will include tumbling, Danish and Swedish Gymnastics and apparatus demonstrations. Highlighting the evening will be a demonstration of competitive gymnastic routines given by the Daly City All-Around Gymnasts who have competed locally for the past year for Daly City and just recently presented an exhibition at the San Mateo County Fair.

Fall Meeting At Meadows Richest Ever

More than $2,700,000, including $400,000 in stakes, will be distributed in purses during the 83-day fall racing season opening Wednesday, September 13 at Bay Meadows.

Announcement of the richest stakes and purse program in the history of Northern California racing was made today by Joe Cohen, president and general manager of Bay Meadows, and Bob Gunderson, general manager of Tanforan. The first 34 days of the season will be presented under the auspices of Tanforan, with the remaining 49 belonging to Bay Meadows. Closing day is Monday, December 18.

Top attraction on the Tanforan Stakes agenda is the $25,000 added Tanforan Handicap, which will have its twenty-fifth running Saturday, October 21. Richest race of the lengthy session is the Bay Meadows Juvenile Championship, to be presented Saturday, December 16 for a purse of $50,000 added. It is the highlight of the Bay Meadows meeting.

The Tanforan Handicap is for three-year olds and up going one mile and one eighth, while the Bay Meadows Juvenile is for two-year olds traveling one mile and one sixteenth. The latter event should go a long way toward determining the West's top two-year old for the 1967 season.

Mid-Week Stakes

In addition to a stakes race every Saturday, Tanforan has also carded one for mid-week throughout its part of the meeting. The twelve Tanfo stakes total $170,000 in added monies, with one at $25,000, two at $20,000, three at $15,000 and six at $10,000.

Bay Meadows also has a dozen stakes, with their value totalling $230,000.

In addition to the $50,000 added Bay Meadows Juvenile Championship, there is one at $25,000, four at $20,000, three at $15,000 and three at $10,000.

The Bay Meadows Handicap, which will be contested Saturday, November 23 for a prize of $25,000 added, is the West's oldest continuously run stakes event. At one mile and one-sixteenth and styled for three-year olds and up, it will be having its thirty-sixth presentation.

Both the Tanfo and Meadows programs present opportunities for horses in all categories. Among the twenty-four added money events are two for freshman fillies, five for two-year olds of both sexes, one for fillies and mares, and eight for three-year olds and up.

The total purse distribution of more than $2,700,000 represents an increase of almost $700,000 over 1966 when the same number of days were presented at the San Mateo course.

Following are the combined stakes schedules for Tanforan and Bay Meadows:

Ernie Feibusch, soccer coach at Lowel High School and a former player for the San Francisco Vikings, and Joe Feeney, coach for the San Francisco Gelns Soccer Club, will conduct a free clinic in Daly City Friday at the War Memorial Building.

Basic fundamentals in controlling, passing, shooting, heading, dribbling, goal keeping and throwing in will be demonstrated by Febusch and Feeney and their assistants.

Two films showing the "finer points" of the game will also be presented, and a question and answer period will follow the program.

Peninsula Police Set Annual Ball

Mayors throughout San Mateo county today reminded residents of their communities that today more than ever before the men of their police departments need the encouragement of public support.

One token way in which they can give assurance of such community support is through the endorsement of the annual Peninsula Peace Officers' Association ball. It will be held Sept. 9 at the Thunderbolt hotel in Millbrae from 9 p.m. to 1 .m..

Tickets costing only $1 each have just gone out into the mail to each household.

"The sum is small," note local officials, "but the result of the $1 ticket purchase is a big one. The funds go to benefit the Wodows and Orphans fund of the police organization.

And, beyond that they give heartening proof to each of the 350 members of the Association that the public is glad to give them a pat on the back at least in this way."

The non-profit Peninsula Police Officers Association makes funds available to the families of officers killed in the line of duty, explans President Fred Ceranski, Half Moon Bay police chief.

He adds, "Unfortunately, today more than ever before in our local and national history, law enforcement faces increasing hazard and difficulty in upholding the law and maintaining order. And, therefore, more than ever before it is important to each officer that his family be assured of protection. That is a major purpose of the Peninsula Police Officers Association."

Ceranski also promised, "There will be plenty of fine entertainment and excellent dancing to good music." Jack Maloney's 14-piece orchestra will play. Soloist will be Ruth Roland.

The Police association is headed by the following other officials: First Vice President Gerry Sheehan of San Mateo, Second Vice President Herman Neuman, Detective Sergeant of San Mateo; Treasurer Leroy Hubbard, Atherton Police Chief; Claim Secretary Dave Silva, Atherton police captain; Secretary Fred Caviglia, Burlingame Inspector; Sergeant-at-Arms Paul Averett, Pacifica Inspector.

Members of the Board of Directors include Hillsborough Police Chief Russell Fisher, Redwood City Sergeant Fred Cole, Millbrae Sergeant William Sevenson, Daly City Officer James Sunderland, Burlingame Captain Jack Price, and Past President Edward Sheehan of Burlingame.

Cost for the evening on the San Francisco Bay Cruise on the Harbor King is $3 for members and $4 for their guests.

Fliers are being mailed to each member and may be turned in at the Aug. 15 Band Battle Dance at Westmoor Gym.

The 125 sign-ups must be received by this date or the boat ride-dance will be cancelled and all monies refunded, a department spokesman said.

LOUANNE HEATH

(Family Life Columnist)

She's Moved a Lot

Ruth Whitehead is not positive about what type of a career she will select during her four years in college, but she is very positive about one thing — no matter what a woman wants to do with her life, she can do a better job if she has a good education.

From teacher to housewife, college is vital, according to Ruth.

"Upon graduation, almost every person has a chance to go to college even if it is only a junior college. This, I feel, is one of the most important things today. With some sort of an education a woman can do a better job of anything, even raising her children to be better citizens, and that is important to any community," Ruth explained.

Some students shudder at the thought of changing schools and many an adult remembers that educationally he never quite got back in stride after moving to a new school. Ruth hasn't let changing schools slow her down in the slightest and despite the fact that she has attended eleven schools in six different towns she graduated with honors from Oceana in June and received the California School Employees Association scholarship.

RUTH was born on the edge of the Mother Lode county, in Auburn, 18 years ago. She attended Auburn's Alta Vista school through part of the third grade, then she moved a short way down the valley, to Orangevale, where she completed the third and part of the fourth grades. For the remainder of the fourth and part of the fifth grades she was enrolled in the Bryte elementary school near the Mojave Desert.

Ruth finished the fifth grade at McDonald Walker school in Sacramento, and then went on to Sequoia elementary and Kit Carson Junior High Schools and Hiram W. Johnson High School in the capitol city.

The tenth and eleventh grades she attended high school in McCloud, in the shadow of Mt. Shasta.

A YEAR AND A HALF before Ruth was due to graduate, Mrs. Carolyn Whitehead moved her family — Ruth, Sylvia, 16, Bernard 11, and Elisa, 8 to Pacifica and Ruth began studying at Oceana where she continued to pursue her major interests — science and history.

"I plan to attend a junior college for two years and then transfer to a state college or university. After graduating from college I am thinking about becoming a social worker or a teacher (of history, perhaps)", Ruth said.

Ruth expects that she will find college more impersonal than schools she has attended previously.

"I'll miss the closeness between the students — in college I don't think the students are as close, on a whole, at any rate," she explained.

EVEN THOUGH she has transfered schools more than most students, she has always taken an active part in student activities. She has served as class secretary on two occasions and has been a class vice president on three occasions. She has also served on dance and party committees and has taken an active part in interclass sports, the student newspaper in McCloud, a special literary annual, Girls Athletic Association and the Future Scientists of America.

Aside from her school activities she has a special interest in training and exhibiting show dogs, readings, camping and hiking. She has helped to train a number of dogs which she has shown in dog shows and she hopes to continue this particularly enjoyable avocation.

Facilities For Pre-schoolers Are Increased

This fall North County parents are expected to benefit from increased facilities for theie pre-schoolers, as a result of a meeting held by the Preschool Committee of the San Bruno Branch of the American Association of University Women.

Last spring, Mrs. E. John Ainsworth, committee chairman, arranged a meeting for several north county leaders to stress that in the group's opinion, one of the most pressing educational needs in the north county is for increased preschool facilities.

The North County YWCA will sponsor classes at the Lutheran Church of the Resurrection in San Bruno on Mondays and Fridays from 9:30 to 11:30 beginning the week of Sept. 18.

The teacher will be Mrs. Richard Morse, who originated her own nursery school in Squaw Valley, named "Squnch".

Parents interested in enrolling their children may contact Miss Justine Williams, director of the North County YWCA, at 756-7370.

Autumn Is Best Time to Renovate a Lawn

By IVA NEWMAN

Autumn is really the "beginning," not the "end," of the gardening season with lawns. And, although autumn starts with September, August is the ideal time to start the soil preparation for a new lawn. Our long, hot, rainless season demands a deep-rooted grass for an easily-kept, green lawn during the summer months and deeply penetrating roots need a deeply prepared soil.

Start now and dig the soil for the new lawn a full spade-length deep. If you are adverse to this type of work, call in a couple of vacationing school boys, many of them are anxious to earn a few dollars before school starts again. Rake the spaded surface fairly smooth, spread a couple of inches of a good soil conditioner such as treated bark, and rake this material into the top two or three inches and water deeply.

Watering will germinate the weed seeds which, when two or three inches high, can be dug into the soil as a "green manure." In the olden days we used to let the weeds come up three or four times before sowing the grass seed. Now, we have chemicals that will prevent the germination of weed seeds in the top two or three inches of soil. You can find these week killers under various trade names at most nurseries. Ask your nurseryman for one that will let you plant in two or three weeks. Some of these add fertilizer to the soil but if the one you use does not do this be sure to add a liberal amount of fertilizer to the soil before sowing the grass seed.

(If you have a sprinkler system in your lawn area be sure to check the coverage before sowing the seed. Water is too valuable to let it run onto walks or other paved areas and thence into the sewer. If you don't have a sprinkler system look into the new plastic systems you can install yourself. These are proving very satisfactory and economical and they save a tremendous amount of running back and forth to change sprinklers.

No Rolling

Level the seedbed by raking. We no longer roll a lawn area as we have found a packed soil is not conducive to good turf growth. Leave the surface loose and crumbly. Then spread a lawnseed blend of fine-textured grasses, as they are now identified on the label. The tiny seeds sift nicely into the soil crevices, and in most cases no raking is needed. Spread a mulch over the surface, use seedless straw, excelsior, peatmoss or some of the special mats sold at the garden centers. We have to use cheap cheesecloth as we have both a wind and bird problem. Then water well with a fine spray to get sprouting started. Follow this with light spraying whenever the soil surface dries to assure a good stand of grass within just a few weeks. Organic mulches can be left to decay on the lawn but fibergrass mats and cheesecloth should be lifted before the young blades become firmly enmeshed in the fibers.

Equally uncomplicated is the encouragement and improvement of existing turf. It's a good idea to spread the same quality seed for the new lawn as was used for the old lawn, but only at half rate. This provides candidate grass for skimpy stands, or for places where weeds might otherwise prevail.

When you are dissatisfied with your present lawn the first step toward improvement is to arrive at the source of dissatisfaction, and the cause. If the grasses you now have are the proper kind, merely thin or spindly, improvement is usually easy, as stated above. But if there are fundamental difficulties, such as low spots that hold water, areas where the water runs off without penetrating, really inadequate soils, or masses of perennial weeds or weed grasses, more difficult and expensive measures will have to be undertaken. These might includ regrading and perhaps tilling, improvement of the soil structure and fertility, or complete renovation according to the procedures for making new lawns.

Where there is too little grass, sow more seed as suggested above. Always "rough-up" the surface of the soil by cutting the surface with a spade or other sharp instrument to provide a catch basin for the seed.

Rake Out Thatch

When old grass is thick and matted, supplementary seeding will be much more effective if you scratch out the thatch or duff (thin or aerate, preferably with a "power-rake" or a dethatching machine, generally rentable from garden centers). This allows the new seed to sift down to mineral soil, where it has a good chance to strike root. It won't sprout perched atop a lot of dry fluff. And the thinning (vertical mowing) stimulates attractive new juvenile growth from old grass plants at the same time that it frees the lawn of its undertone of browned foilage. Sweep or rake up the loosened thatch and add it to the compost pile or use it as a mulch under your shrubs.

If there is one special time of year when you get your money's worth from lawn feeding, it's autumn — and without the bother of extra mowing. A complete lawn fertilizer is normally advisable: Lawn fertiizers are comparatively rich in nitrogen, the first percentage given in the analysis which reads consecutively "nitrogen - phosphoruspotassium, typical analysises are 24-9-5, 22-8-4, and 30-5-8. Most products are bagged these days for 5,000 square feet, and supply about one pound of nitrogen per one thousand square feet of lawn, a reasonable rate. For underfed lawns you may well double this rate but in two separate applications, one early in September and one in early October. Fertilization will encourage tiller formation (thickening of the grass), and pay dividends in the year ahead in a turf that smothers out much of the weed competition on its own. Tests at Iowa State University have shown that fertilizing blugrass can be more important than a pre-emergence chemical for checking crabgrass. Remember, too, that a flourishing bluegrass plant can spread extensively by itself. Research in Canada has indicated that a single plantlet, in one growing season, can produce 818 feet of underground spreading stem (rhizomes) that yields 1,305 daughter plants.

Pamper, a little, the kind of grass you grow. Kentucky bluegrass-fine fescue is best mowed tall, although certain strains such as Merion endure a lower mowing height. A bluegrass lawn is best not mowed shorter than 2 inches. On the other hand, bent grasses, such as Highland, should be moved closer, generally only ½ to one inch. They should be mowed frequently, too, about twice a week with a reel-type mower. And they should be watered whenever the top couple of inches are dry, be fertilized about once a month, and be given preventive disease and pest treatment before going into the winter.

New Volume On Arrangements

"Creativity in Flower Arrangement." By Frances Bode, published by Hearthside Press, Inc. ($5.95).

Every garden clubber in Northern California has at one time or another enjoyed the work of Frances Bode of Sacramento, California, for she has given demonstrations in most all the cities of this area. She has also exhibited her work at the Oakland Spring garden Show.

Frances Bode has a Bachelor of Arts degree from Mills College in art and art history; California Teaching credential from the University of California at Berkeley and a Masters in Art degree from Sacramento State College. She is a member of Sacramento Arrangers' Guild, vice-president of Flower Arrangers of Northern California and a member of Kingsley Art Club. In addition she has a husband that is a topnotch photographer. All of the eighty-six illustrations in this book, both black and white and color are his work.

In her book Creativity in Flower Arrangement, Frances Bode says "Creativity begins with Craftsmanship." She then explains to the reader how to be a good craftsman, and outlines the needed techniques in both words and pictures. We were particularly impressed with the truth of her statement that a container should be a functional adjunct to the design not a focus.

The arranger will find the answer to every question in flower arrangement from how to make woodforms and shells hold a given position to contriving a container and how to see form, pattern and line in plant material. If this book doesn't make you a good arranger it will at least improve your status for it tells you why and how to work toward achievement.

Girl Scouts Attend Day Camp

Daly City day campers at Girl Scout camp Ida Smith generally had a good time outdoors beneath towering eucalyptus and madrones near beach, zoo and Lake Merced, accoring to unit leaders.

Close to 200 8-14 year old girls attended.

Leaders included Mmes. L. B. Burn, Marjorie Milani, Mary Ann Dale, Isabel M. Hidzick, Wanda S. Adams, Lila Wilson, Mae Bastien, Charles Fleischer, Alice Gonzale, Sonia Miller, Jackie Abbley and Lisa Pfeifer.

Pixie unit leader was Mrs. Gussani.

Daily camp hummed with industry as patrol leaders met in council with Mrs. Morino to work out their overnight Aug. 9, and then return to units to help with capers — chores to non-scouts—be it building fires, cooking or clean-up. Morning started with flag ceremony, perhaps conducted by Brownies, but always assisted by the more experienced.

The climax of the eight day session of course was an overnight in sleeping bags under the trees. A songfest with guitars featured Marie Kennealy and Christy DeMattei.

Other guest specialists for the week were Gary Breckon, naturalist from the Golden Gate Hall of flowers, and San Francisco Mounted Police trainer Cantwell. Tom Troneum of the Dolphin Club boathouse informed the girls on building, repairing and handling of racing shells. One "very special" guest which delighted all was a small fawn that had left its zoo enclosure.

Three Hurt When Bus Cracks Up

Three men were injured last Wednesday in South San Francisco when a Holiday Inn service bus ran off Airport Boulevard into Colma Creek.

Police said the six-passenger bus, driven by Karim Safiri of San Francisco, first struck a parking sign, then careened off the road and struck a piling under the Colma Creek bridge.

The driver and two passengers, Charles J. Clute and Donald C. Wagner, were admitted to Peninsula Hospital for treatment of multiple injuries.

Safiri was transporting the two passengers from San Francisco International Airport to the Holiday Inn Motel on South Airport Boulevard when the wreck occured, police said.

Tools Gone From Plant

More than $2,000 worth of tools were stolen from the Oroweat plant on South Spruce Avenue in South San Francisco last week, police said.

Officials at the plant discovered the tools missing Wednesday.

A 'Pre-Pak' Food Service

South San Francisco Unified School District will put into operation "Pre-Pak" food service with the start of school in September, it has been announced by the board of trustees after a 38-day trail at Buri Buri School.

Penny Hamilton, director of food service for the district, stated if the equipment is installed by September 5, regular food service could start on opening day, September 11.

The system, involving a minimal changeover, would operate out of a commissary type kitchen to be established at El Camino High School, Mrs. Hamilton continued. Southwood Avalon, Ponderosa, Monte Verde, Serra Vista, Foxridge, Skyline and Buri Buri Schools and El Camino High School would be served from this one major production kitchen, with Southwood becoming a serving kitchen, the director added.

Bullet Holes At School

Daly City police were continuing their investigation of several bullet holes found last week in the walls of several classrooms at the Thomas Edison School on Southgate Avenue here.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD ★ JOHNSON

Shadows' Chef Bill Mills Acclaimed Soup Expert

CHEF BILL MILLS of Dave Rasmussen's Shadows of San Mateo restaurant is famed nationally for his culinary creations, and especially known for his preparation of the Shadows' widely acclaimed German soups. Bill offers a wide selection of the tasty thick soups, of which split pea and chicken okra rate among the big favorites. . . . Jim Boyd, co-owner of The Happening restaurant in Hillsdale, and in charge of the fountain section, whips up everything from floats to double sundaes. But the big favorite is his top secret, "Happening Special," for 95 cents. It's so huge most people can't finish it. . . . Dewey Wong's quick-service luncheon menu at his Pierre's in downtown San Mateo is sure to please those on the go. Whether it's a leisurely or hurried mid-day stop, lunch or dinner here is always enjoyable.

DOUG YOUNG, hard working manager of the International Inn restaurant, will be missing from the South San Francisco scene for the next couple of weeks. Doug is planning a well-earned vacation at Clear Lake, or anywhere, he said, where he can get away from the telephone . . . More and more people on the Peninsula are discovering that a Roabee Sandwich is a meal in itself. For those who have yet to try one, a Roabee is a heaping helping of hot roast beef on a toasted sesame roll. Located across from Hillsdale, on El Camino, the Roabee restaurant is open seven days a week from 11 a.m. to midnight. . . . Lew Lehr had two of his golfing buddies, Jeff Hyman and Harold Cohn, as dinner guests at his Steak House in San Francisco's Marina. Also dining at Lew's was Rick Barry, the basketballer, and his wife . . . Giuliano, handsome Waiter Captain at Doros gourmet restaurant in San Francisco, came from New York City, where he worked at top restaurants.

HANDSOME BUDDY ROGERS, who was known in silent film days as "America's boy friend," laughed through two shows at Finocchio's, where he enjoyed the antics of such old time vaudeville stars as Jean Evol and Francis Blair (as the "Two old bags from Oakland"), and Lucian, the last of the "redhot papas." As a former vodvil performer, Buddy was right at home. Wonder how many in the audience know he is married to Mary Pickford, once known as America's Sweetheart." . . . Sil Oliva, number one man at the number one address on Fisherman's Wharf, the Exposition Fish Grotto, remembers, and speaks reverently of the days of "bare knuckles". Sil doesn't give any of the current heavyweight contenders a ghost of a chance with the likes of past champions. . . . Taste tip: Sauerbraten, Spatzli (little shell-like noodles that are homemade) and Red Cabbage, as served at The Matterhorn Swiss Restaurant in Burlingame.

VIVACIOUS FRAN KING, owner of Fran's Coffee Shop, along with her husband, Karl, is an "I.B.M." when it comes to remembering kitchen orders. Specializing in a businessman's luncheon, with prices being unusually reasonable, Fran's is a 37th Avenue target for noontime diners, as well as morning coffee breakers with big breakfast appetites. . . . Children are truly welcome and comfortable at Rudolfo's in Palo Alto. Art Alfinito and his kin have designed a place for the entire family. The relaxed informality and modest-priced menu of steaks and italian dishes make it the ideal spot to take the kids. . . . Rick Gordon, night plankman at Fabbro's in Redwood City, left yesterday for a two-week Hawaiian vacation, and expects to return with a few tall tales and a suntan. . . .

Art Alfinito

FRANK GORSHIN, singer-composer impressionist-actor, opened a three-week engagement, last night, in the Venetian Room of the Fairmont Hotel. A brilliant performer who is totally committed to entertaining his audience, Gorshin has been involved in every area of show business, motion pictures, television, legitimate theater, night clubs and the concert stage. His lists of TV credits includes appearances with Ed Sullivan, Jackie Gleason, as well as a Carol Burnett Special, Hollywood Palace and others . . . If you don't think Phil Lehr is a slicker at cutting steaks to your ounce order at his Steakery in downtown San Francisco, just bet him. Years of experience has made Phil an expert at it.

PLANNING A CLUB OR COMPANY PARTY, luncheon, or breakfast? Better call Antoine, maitre d' at the Carrousel restaurant. He will make your reservation in the opulent, new banquet rooms which are now nearing completion. Air-condition, separate entrance, complete privacy for groups from 20 to 200 are features. . . . The climax of an evening at Ernie Van Asperen's old-time Barbary Coast-style Gold Street in San Francisco is the New Year's Eve party every night at midnight, and with no minimum charge with all its gaiety and entertainment. Hats, horns, balloons, confetti, noise makers, etc. for all. . . . People who visit Sinaloa, the Mexican cantina in San Francisco, are often surprised to find the selection of steaks and American fare on the menu. A full-course steak dinner for $4 is featured; no cover charge for those having dinner. A Latin revue of singing and dancing, featuring top names of Mexico is presented three times nightly.

THE SCALOPPINE A LA ENRICO dinner at Romano's in Pacifica does justice to the man after whom it was named — owner Enrico Romano, who is as particular with food as he is with expensive racing cars. Served with paste, vegetable, French bread, dessert and beverage, it's an old-fashioned Italian dinner you'll rave about . . . You can show that you know your fine Greek brandies when you order Mextaxa 7-star at the Balkan Village. Owner Louie Gundunas says this is the aristocrat of all Greek beverages. During one of those jumping evenings of dancing and music, you see Mextaxa, retsina wine and ouzo, the licorice-flavored cordial, consumed with gusto . . . Would you believe that over a ton of Scampi, the delicious, delicate-flavored imported Italian shrimp, is served at L'Auberge every six months? They are prepared in several tasty ways, including with Bordelaise sauce

Get Acquainted With Augie's Menu Selections

This is "Get Acquainted Week at Augie's on Third Avenue. Phyllis and Augie Aprile extend an invitation to all to get acquainted with their exceptional selection of dinner specialties. Two menu eye-catchers: the New York Steak Sandwich, served with French fries or baked potato, and a choice of soup or salad; Augie's Special Dinner, charcoal broiled steak (tender filet mignon). Another thing: How about that after-dinner treat—"Have a Creme de Mente on Augie!" This puts the final touch on a "special dinner" that's really 'special.'

Luncheon is served daily—and so is that much-talked-about double Martini priced at 75 cents (this is also a luncheon special).

Dinner-dancing Friday and Saturday evenings is an added attraction that the late-night dining and cocktail crowd favors. No cover charge; ample parking.

Mary Lou Francis Receives Fish Not Flowers

Mary Lou Francis, co-owner and hostess of Scotty Campbell's, brought a smile to the faces of many late-evening patrons nearby the reservation desk, last Tuesday. While chatting with George Samuels, a Redwood City sportsman who frequents this popular Redwood City dinner house, and whose hobby it is to deep sea fish—salmon being his special catch, Mary Lou asked if I knew that instead of bringing her flowers, Samuels gifted her with "bouquets of fresh-caught salmon." Mary Lou, there are plenty more "fish in the sea-"

AUGIE'S NEW LOOK—Augie and Phyllis Aprile invite you to visit their completely redecorated Third Avenue Augie's restaurant. The above will give you an idea of what to expect in this ultra-modern dining room.

Seafood Special On Black Angus Menu

The Black Angus Chuck Wagon features six different hot entrees served in a "help yourself" buffet-style fashion—one of which is a special of the day, seven days a week. Today's feature is Tidbit Prawns—for both luncheon and dinner.

Villa Italica Dinner Only

The interior of the charming Villa Italica in San Carlos is a suitable environment for the dining of royalty. Owner Vittorio Cantalupo has spared no cost in creating an atmosphere of quiet luxury while enjoying such Italian delicacies as Spaghettini Artichoke and Fettucune Verdi, which, incidentally, are low calorie specialties. Open for dinner only from 4:30 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. seven nights a week.

Audiences around the Palo Alto area are getting a rare opportunity to see a Horn play bass. Murray Horn, canadian born bass player, is currently featured in Nero's Nook at the Cabana Hotel, Tuesday through Sunday nights. Music lovers are jamming in nightly to see this show business veteran. Sharing the vocal spotlight with Horn is singer Marilee Myers.

Maurice Brossier, co-owner and chef at La Touraine, was once personal chef for the Crocker family. After deciding to become a restaurateur, it didn't take long for success to come his way. Chef Brossier's culinary abilities are now known all around the Bay Area.

An evening of romantic dinner-dancing in an incomparable setting is offered every Friday and Saturday night at Frank Torres Beach Hotel in Montara. Frank and Fannie Torres are ideal hosts, and together they have created an out-of-the-way coastside haven known for fine Peruvian dishes, and the soft dance music of the Bob Howard Orchestra on weekends.

Judging from the various multi-colored license plates on cars in the South San Francisco Holiday Inn's parking lot, last week, the "Inn" was obviously playing host to a convention of out-of-towners.

"Just normal vacationing crowds," explained owners Fred and Jerry Rapp.

Flank Steak Burgundy

With barbecue equipment growing more and more sophisticated each season, outdoor cooking is no longer limited to casual, picnic-like fare. These days, the mst elegant company dinner can come off the grill with as much ease as meals prepared in the kitchen.

The real find for the devotee of outdoor entertaining is the thing special" flavor and appearance, yet requires only a minimum of work.

Such a dish is Steak Burgundy . . . an intriguing treatment of flank steak. Its robust, herb-touched flavor comes from a savory marinade which doubles as a rich nion-burgundy sauce for spooning over the cooked steak slices. The how to? Start with a can of condensed onion soup, that expertly seasoned soup so good as is or for perfect pour on sauces. Add a small amunt of burgundy and a light seasoning of crushed basil. Allow the steak to acquire the good flavor of this marinade, then bring it to the grill. Heat the marinade while the steak cooks, and voila! fine gravy to set off your steak.

Round out the menu with a big mixed salad, crusty tolls, and fresh peach tarts topped with whipped cream.

FLANK STEAK BURGUNDY

1 can (10½ ounces) condensed onion soup
2 tablespoons dry red wine
½ teaspoon basil, crushed
1½ pounds flank steak, scored

Combine all ingredients except steak; pour over steak in shallow dish. Refrigerate 1 hr.; turn meat occasionally. Place on grill about 4 inches above glowing coals. Cook 5 minutes in each side or until desired doneness; bursh frequently with marinade. Heat remaining sauce; serve with meat thinly sliced diagonally across grain. Makes 6 servings.

Mock Devonshire

This Mock Devonshire Cream is especially spectacular when served atop fresh strawberry tarts or shortcake. It is equally flavorsome, however, when served with fresh fruits on cake squares. Soften one 8-ounce package cream cheese; gradually blend in ½ pint (1 cup) dairy sour cream. That's all there is to it.

PERFECT PINEAPPLE PARFAITS for summer parties. alternate layers of crushed pineapple and orange sherbet in pretty parfait glasses. Freeze. At serving time garnish with a pouf of whipped cream and chopped nuts.

Meat Loaf Finale For a Busy Day

Try a meat loaf supper.

Tomato Topped Meat Loaf
Noodle Squares
Danish Spinach
Sliced Orange and Onion Salad
Prune Whip Tarts
Coffee Milk

Tomato Topped Meat Loaf

1 can (10½ ounces) condensed chicken gumbo soup
2 pounds ground beef
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
½ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 tablespoon Worcestershire
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
1 tomato
½ cup shredded mild cheese

Combine all ingredients except tomato and cheese; mix thoroughly. Shape firmly into a loaf; place in shallow baking pan. (Thorough mixing and firm shaping will produce a moist, easy-to-slice loaf.) Bake in a 350 degrees oven 1 hour. Garnish top with 4 tomato slices and shredded cheese; bake 15 minutes more. Makes 8 servings.

Dress Up Beans

The addition of the sharp and wonderful flavor of blue cheese will dress up a dish of lima beans in a hurry. For four servings cook one 10-ounce package frozen lima beans in unsalted water until just tender; drain. Combine ¼ cup milk with ¼ cup crumoled blue cheese and 1 tablespoon soft butter. Add to beans; heat over low heat stirring constantly until beans are well coated.

In 1966 California continued in fourth place in the nation in the total commerial production of milk, nearly four billion quarts.

Quick Tips

Cook one 8-ounce package of noodles until very soft; drain. Toss with a dash of seasoned salt and pepper, ½ cup grated cheese and ¼ cup of evaporated milk. Pack into a square baking pan, sprinkle with ¼ cup fine crumbs and dot with 2 tablespoons butter. Bake about 30 minutes. Cut in squares to serve.

Seasoned canned, frozen or fresh cooked spinach with a few tablespoons dairy sour cream and a generous dash nutmeg.

Buy or make tart shells, fill with prune whip and sprinkle with grated lemon rind. It is still prune whip — but different

Add Cottage Cheese

Add extra nutrition to preschool children's diets by stirring a spoonful or two of cottage cheese into each serving of canned spaghetti or macaroni and cheese, stew or other main dish of your choice. It helps cool it down quickly, too.

Ice Cream Rolls

When children are present a party just isn't a party unless there is ice cream . . . So here's a suggestion for your next children's party. Roll scoops of vanilla or chocolate (or some of both) in chopped nuts, grated chocolate or shredded coconut and serve topped with chocolate sauce.

Seedless Grapes Have Many Uses

The season's first shipments of Thompson Seedless grapes are now beginning to show up on the nation's fruit counters — and smart homemakers are taking advantage of them for cool summer menus.

This year's crop is especially abundant and, thanks to modern agricultural techniques, the familiar green berries are noticeably bigger and juicier than in years past.

The first seedless "white" grapevine was discovered 76 years ago by a California farmer named William Thompson, whose name they have borne ever since. Thompson carefully nurtured his lucky find, and took as many cuttings as he dared. Today, the descendants of that single original vine cover a quarter-million acres in California alone. The Thompsons have become synonymous with table grapes in this country, and more of them are eaten than any other variety of grape grown here.

The reason for their popularity is not hard to understand. Sweet, juicy and plump, they do away with the bother of seeds. A perfect snack, they can be eaten out of hand, or added to sauces, puddings, main dishes, salads or desserts in almost any part of the weekly menu.

Grape cookery is a well-established part of the American tradition (America's first name was "Vineland," after the profusion of grapevines that were found here) — and the Thompson Seedless grapes have added a new dimension. What could be more convenient to a cook than a versatile fruit that desn't have to be seeded?

For some cool desserts or snacks, try the following:

1. Fill a parfait glass with alternating layers of vanilla ice cream, Thompson Seedless grapes and lemon ice. Top with sweetened cream and additional grapes.

2. Prepare your favorite jelly roll. Cool and spread with sweetened whipped cream. Top with halved Thompson Seedless grapes. Roll up and frost with additional cream. Cover roll with halved grapes.

3. Shape cream cheese spread into a large, oval-shaped ball on an individual salad plate on a lettuce leaf. Press halved Thompson Stedless grapes on top of cheese (to resemble a large bunch of grapes). Add a green leaf and surround with slices of peeled fresh orange. Serve with tiny bread and butter sandwiches or tea muffins.

SHRIMP AND GRAPE SALAD
Serves 6

Bite-size salad greens
2 pounds medium shrimp, cooked, shelled and deveined
1 cup sliced celery
2 cups stemmed Thompson Seedless grapes
1-3 cup sliced scallions
¾ cup oil and vinegar salad dressing
¼ cup crumbled Roquefort cheese (1 ounce)

Line a salad bowl with greens. Toss shrimp, celery, grapes and scallions. Pour mixture into bowl. Chill until ready to serve. Combine salad dressing and Roquefort. Beat until blended. Pour over salad and toss until sald pieces are all coated. Serve at once.

GRAPE CHIFFON PIE
Makes one 9-inch pie

16 sugar cookies
2 packages (3-ounce each) pineapple-orange gelatin
2½ cups boiling water
1 cup (½ pint) sour cream
2 cups stemmed Thompson seedless grapes
½ cup heavy cream, whipped

Use cookies to line the bottom and sides of a nine-inch pie pan. Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Chill until slightly thickened. Beat in sour cream. Chill until very thick. Beat with rotary egg beater or electric mixer until light and fluffy. Fold in 1¾ cups of grapes. Pour mixture into cookie lined pan. Chill until firm. Garnish with whipped cream, sweetened to taste, if desired and remaining grapes.

Add Extra Seasonings

Extra seasonings are added to prepared mayonnaise and it is thinned a bit — to use on seafood salad.

Blend and Gel Perfection Salad

A popular meat accompaniment in Hawaii is Hot Pineapple Jelly. Made with dried chili peppers, the Mainland version has a hint of tart-sweet and lots of that bite that makes it excellent with beef, lamb or roast fowl. This is jelly making time, so include a few glasses of this specialty while you have the cookers, paraffin and sterilizers in operation. Then use them as hostess gifts at holiday time.

Hot Pineapple Jelly

- 2¼ cups Hawaiian Pineapple Juice (No. 2 or 1 pt., 2 oz. can)
- ¾ cup cider vinegar
- 5½ cups sugar
- 1 teaspoon crushed or chopped* chilies (dried small hot whole red peppers)
- 1 bottle liquid fruit pectin

Combine and mix pineapple juice, vinegar, sugar and chilies in a large saucepan. Place over high heat and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. At once stir in liquid fruit pectin; then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and carefully skim off foam with metal spoon. The pieces of chili shell tend to float to the top; leave as many in the jelly as possible for color. Pour quickly into sterilized glasses. Cover jelly at once with ⅛ inch hot paraffin. NOTE: *Wash hot substance from hands after chopping chilies.

Good Meat Relish Adds a 'Zing'

Back in 1905, in a cookery contest sponsored by a leading gelatine manufacturer, Mrs. John E. Cooke of New Castle, Pa., won a prize for her original "receipt" for Perfection Salad. This delicious molded vegetable salad went on to win nation-wide acclaim and the enthusiastic approval of good cooks everywhere. Today this reliable American classic can be made in less time than ever before, thanks to the exciting new blend 'n gel method which has revolutionized preparation of gelatine dishes; the ingredients for the gelatine dishes "spin cook" in a blender.

Perfection Salad

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatine
- ¼ cup cold water
- ½ cup boiling water
- ¼ cup sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup vinegar
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- ¾ cup ice cubes (about 5 cubes)
- 1½ cups cabbage pieces
- 1 cup celery pieces
- ½ green pepper, cut into pieces
- 1 pimiento, diced

Sprinkle gelatine over cold water in blender container; allow to stand while assembling remaining ingredients. Add boiling water; cover and process until gelatine dissolves. If gelatine granules cling to sides of the container, use a rubber spatula to push them into the mixture. Add sugar, salt, vinegar and lemon juice. Turn control to highest speed and add ice cubes, one at a time; process until ice is melted. Stop blender and add cabbage, celery and green pepper. Cover and chop by turning to high speed and off several times. Chill mixture until it is the consistency of unbeaten egg white and the chopped vegetables stay dispersed throughout the mixture. Fold in pimiento and turn into individual molds, 4-cup mold or serving bowl. Chill until firm, 2 or 3 hours. Unmold onto tomato slices and garnish with salad greens.
YIELD: 6 to 8 servings.

Honeyed Chicken A Dining Delight

For family fare or party dining, chicken is just about the world's most versatile entree. The expereinced hostess knows that she can't go wrong with it on the menu. When she serves it baked and glazed with an oriental-inspired honey sauce, she'll soon be smiling her prettiest at the compliments she'll receive.

Honeyed Chicken is a dining delight — a wonderfully easy to prepare dish that the summer's brides would do well to add to their recipe files for those small supper parties they'll be planning soon.

To fix this applause-winner, arrange a quartered broiler-fryer chicken in a shallow baking pan. Brush it with butter. Drizzle it with a sweet-sour mixture made of honey and soy sauce, and continue the basting frequently during the hour and a half that it takes the chicken to bake. A bit of the basting sauce can be used to flavor the gravy, too, and the result is an elegant dish that bespeaks the expert cook . . . and is bound to impress a new mother-in-law.

You might serve the chicken with fresh or frozen asparagus and spiced crabapples. If heartier appettes are to be represented at your table, you can also whip up a fluff of instant mashed potatoes; and round out the menu with a luscious apple or cherry pie. New hostesses note that the pies, too, can be easily made with convenience ingredients including canned fruit pie fillings.

Try this Honeyed Chicken soon when you want to treat family or friends to something new and special. And remember, too, that it's a good idea to keep honey on hand as a staple because it can be used in so many other ways . . . from sweetening breakfast fruits and cereals to helping you bake cakes and cookies that stay moist and tasty much longer than others.

HONEYED CHICKEN

1 3-to-4 pound broiler-fryer chicken, quartered
Butter
½ cup honey
2 tablespoons soy sauce

Arrange chicken in a low baking pan. Brush with soft butter and drizzle with honey combined with soy sauce. Bake at 350 degrees about 1½ hours, until chicken is tender, brushing with honey sauce frequently. Remove chicken from pan. Skim fat from gravy. Add any remaining honey sauce and thicken with cornstarch, if desired. Serve over chicken. Makes 4 servings.

Farm-Style Cream Pie From Vermont

"You've got to learn how to make my Aunt Mary's Cream Pie," Lloyd Selby told his bride Edith when they were first married. "The family will expect it to be the dessert whenever they come over for a real good meal!"

So Edith borrowed the recipe and she's been making the pie ever since. Edith is no mean cook. Born and raised on a farm, concocting feather-light yeast rolls and butter cakes from scratch comes as naturally to her as heating TV dinners does to a jigtime cook. But Edith swears she's never tampered with this cream pie recipe since she inherited it from Lloyd's Aunt Mary.

When guests come to visit the Selbys in Derby Line, in Vermont, like as not they'll be served this delightful dessert. Edith's been making the pie so long that now everyone calls it Edith Selby's Cream Pie.

When we tried the recipe in our own kitchen, we found the pie simple and good — chockful of the uncomplicated flavor of pure ingredients. Edith says she often garnishes the pie with puffs of whipped cream and halved fresh strawberries, or some times with a wreath of well-drained canned apricot halves. Though she admits her family like it best just plain. "Make Cream Pie, but none of your fancy trimmings!" they say.

We, too, enjoy the Cream Pie plain. And that's how we took it visiting. Asked to an informal supper, we told our hostess we'd bring the dessert. We did — Edith Selby's Cream Pie. With it we also brought paper plates, coffee cups and napkins — just to make life easy for our hostess. And did she appreciate it

Edith Selby's Cream Pie

2 tablespoons regular flour
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups milk, scalded
1 cup heavy cream
1 tablespoon vanilla
2 egg whites
8-inch pie shell with a very high fluted rim, baked until a pale gold color and cooled

In the top part of a double boiler, stir together the flour, sugar and salt. Gradually stir in the scalded milk. Cook and stir constantly over simmering water until mixture thickens — about 10 minutes; remove from heat and cool. Stir in heavy cream and vanilla. Beat egg whites until they hold stiff straight peaks. Fold into custard mixture. Pour into baked pie shell. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven until set — 45 minutes. (Shell and top of pie should be golden brown.) Makes 6 servings.

Note: Use a hot (425 degrees) oven for baking the pie shell.

A Colorful Luncheon Dish Is Easy to Serve

If you're looking for something exciting to do with chicken a la king, here's just the thing . . . Creamed Chicken over Confetti Rice Squares. Not only is it a delicious treat, but it looks so good and is so easy to serve. It's a good menu for a crowd of any age.

A pretty baking dish filled with fluffy rice dotted with parsley, chopped onion and pimiento and flavored with shredded Swiss cheese is a colorful addition to the buffet table. Cut the rice into squares and cover each piece with a generous helping of creamed chicken. It's a lot more exciting than most creamed chicken recipes.

You can use leftover or canned chicken or specially stew a chicken. If you stew a chicken, you have delicious broth to cook the rice in and to use as part of the liquid in the creamed chicken. Chicken flavor can be added to the liquid for cooking the rice by chicken bouillon cube, too. It gives so much more flavor. Or, substitute chunks of turkey or tuna for the chicken. But any way you make it, be sure you make enough because everyone is sure to want seconds.

Creamed Chicken Over Confetti Rice Squares

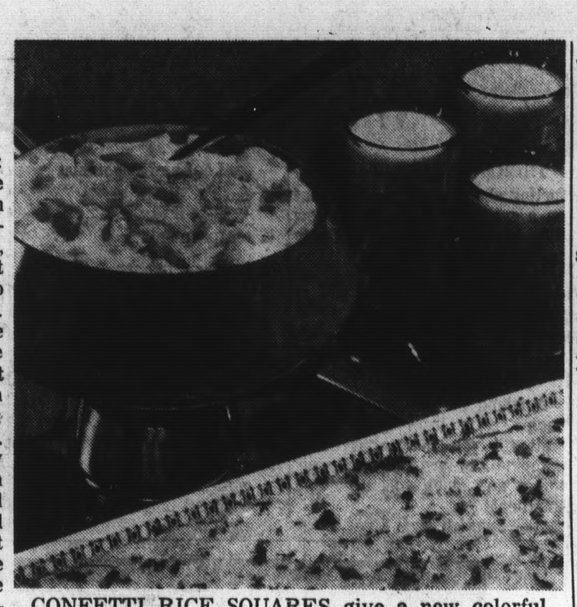
RICE SQUARES:

3 cups cooked rice
1 cup (4-oz.) shredded Swiss cheese
1 cup chopped parsley
1-3 cup chopped onion
1-3 cup chopped pimiento
1 teaspoon salt
3 eggs, beaten
1½ cups milk

CREAMED CHICKEN:

2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground marjoram
2 cups milk
3 cups cut-up cooked chicken
Paprika

To prepare Rice Squares: Cook rice according to package directions, substituting chicken broth for water if desired. Combine cooked rice with cheese, parsley, onion, pimiento, salt and eggs; add milk. Turn into 1½-quart buttered baking dish. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven 40-minutes or until a knife inserted near center comes out clean. To prepare chicken: In a 2-quart saucepan melt butter; stir in flour, salt and marjoram. Remove from heat; gradually stir in milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cook two additional minutes. Add chicken and heat to serving temperature. Serve over Rice Squares and sprinkle with paprika. Makes nine servings.



CONFETTI RICE SQUARES give a new colorful twist to chicken a la king.

Plentiful Vegetable Is Delicious

Simple but delicious way of preparing a plentiful vegetable.

Fish Fillets Mashed Potatoes
Panned Summer Squash
Fresh Peach Shortcake

PANNED SUMMER SQUASH

4 small (1 pound) yellow summer squash
½ teaspoon salt
1½ tablespoon butter
2 tablespoons water

Remove ends and any blemishes from squash but do not peel; wash; slice into thin rounds — there should be 3 cups. Turn into a 10-inch skillet with the salt, butter and water. Heat; cover tightly and simmer, stirring several times, until tender — 8 to 10 minutes. Makes 3 servings.

Nutritious Snack Treat

With increased emphasis on snacking as summer continues the importance of nutritious snacks rather than empty-calorie ones is self-evident. In this categor ice cream stands on its own. With a goodlysupply on hand it is easy to encourage youngsters to consume shakes and fresh fruit sundaes when a sweet snack is indicated.

MEN NEEDED

Regardless of how long a man has been out of the Air Force, he is urged to call the San Bruno recruiting office (583-5029) to discuss the possibility of returning to the service at his old grade, according to an announcement this week.

What's Cooking on Gray Day?

THERE' SOMETHING comforting about baking a meat loaf on a gray, rainy day. Somehow that homespun eating is likely to cheer things up.

But not any old meat loaf — one made Spanish-style, redolent with the fine flavor of olive oil and teamed with savory vegetables.

A friend of ours brought this recipe back from Spain. Just wait till you taste that great combination of tomatoes, potatoes and onion accompanying the meat!

Spanish Style Meat Loaf and Vegetables

2 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup minced parsley
3 tablespoons fine dry bread crumbs
1¼ pounds ground lean beef
¾ pound ground pork
¼ cup olive oil
1 can (1 pound) solid pack whole tomatoes
12 medium-small long white potatoes, pared and each cut lengthwise into eighths
1 large onion, thinly sliced

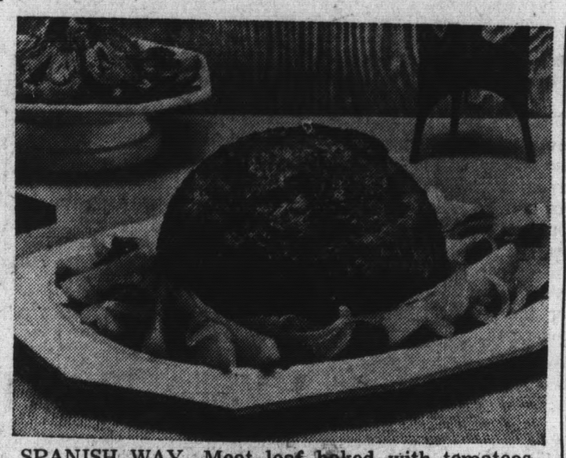
Turn oven to extremely hot (500 degrees to preheat.

In a 1½ quart mixing bowl beat the eggs slightly; mix in the salt, pepper, parsley, bread crumbs, beef and port. Shape into a round about 3 inches high.

Use 2 tablespoons of the olive oil to coat liberally an oblong glass baking dish (13½ by 8 3-4 by 1 3-4 inches). Turn meat into center of the pan. Spoon the tomatoes, including the liquid in the can, around the meat. Place the potatoes and onions around the meat. Dribble the remaining 2 tablespoons olive oil over the potatoes, onions and meat.

Reduce oven temperature to hot (425 degrees) and place pan in oven. Bake about 1 hour or until meat loaf and potatoes are cooked through. Makes 6 hearty servings.

Note: If you like crispy brown potatoes, when the meatloaf is done, remove potatoes to oiled foil or broiler pan and broil; turn and watch so they don't get too brown.



SPANISH WAY—Meat loaf baked with tomatoes, potatoes, onion plus olive oil.

Pimiento Cream Cheese Interest

Add color and flavor interest to your next tuna-noodle casserole by breaking one 3-ounce package cream cheese into pieces in to the hot cream sauce before combining with other ingredients.

Finger Foods Suggestion

Sticks of cheese make nutritious finger foods for toddlers and is an especially wholesome snack to offer at that just-before-dinner cranky time. Best of all they're not messy. Try mild cheddar, Swiss or that favorite of Californians, Monterey Jack.

Dine Well With California Beef

Well bred California beef goes outodors morning, noon and night for warm weather meals. What better way to start the day than with breakfast steaks served on the patio. While guests sip tall coolers, cook thick juicy steaks over the barbecue to serve with creamy scrambled eggs and a basket of cantaloupe halves. The popular breakfast steak is often cut from the bottom of the sirloin and weighs a hearty 5 or 6 ounces.

Another elegant morning way with steak is this gourmetish recipe for Breakfast Beef Bearnaise. Brown long lean strips of flank steak quickly in butter and arrange on toasted English muffin halves. Then top with a poached egg and zesty Bearnaise sauce smoothly made in the blender.

For lunch or supper on the patio, serve colorful roast beef smorgasbord open faces. It's a good way to use up the roast you cooked on a spit over the barbecue. To build these creations, layer cold roast beef, tomatoes, lettuce and cheese over rye bread. Avocado goes on top and ripe olives by the side for pretty garnishes.

Whatever your choice — ground beef patties, kabobs, any cut of tender steak or roasts — California beef is always the favorite for outdoor meals.

BREAKFAST BEEF BEARNAISE

Long lean strips of flank steak are used for this continental delicacy.

1 pound beef flank steak
¼ cup butter
4 English muffins
4 poached eggs
Blender Bearnaise Sauce

Cut beef in thin crosswise strips, slicing diagonally to grain. Saute strips in butter until lightly browned. Split and toast muffins. Arrange beef on muffins and top with poached egg and Blender Bearnaise Sauce. Makes 4 servings.

BLENDER BEARNAISE SAUCE: Combine 3 egg yolks, ¾ teaspoon dry tarragon, 1 tablespoon tarragon vinegar, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon salt and dash cayenne in blender. Blend about 10 seconds. Heat ½ cup butter until foaming but not browned. Turn blender to high speed and pour in butter in thin steady stream. Turn out and stir in 1 tablespoon chopped parsley.

ROAST BEEF SMORGASBORD SANDWICH

Cold roast beef, tomatoes, lettuce and cheese make salad sandwiches to serve open face on rye bread.

4 slices rye bread
3 tablespoons soft butter
⅛ teaspoon dill weed
⅛ teaspoon seasoned salt
Western iceberg lettuce
Sliced Swiss cheese
4 slices cold roast beef
Mustard Dressing

Spread bread with butter blended with dill weed and salt. Arrange layers of lettuce, tomatoes and cheese on bread. Top with roast beef. Garnish as desired with avocado slices and ripe olives. Serve with Mustard Dressing. Makes 4 sandwiches.

LAMB MINT FLAVOR

Lamb lovers rejoice. Here's a fabulous new mint sauce that works wonders over the coals or in the oven when it meets lamb. Combine and heat 1-cup mint or apple mint jelly, teaspoon whole cloves, 2 tablespoons Gravy Master seasoning sauce, ¼-cup wine vinegar, dried mint to taste. Strain and put on lamb before baking. Mmmm, good.

MUSTARD DRESSING: Blend 1 cup dairy sour cream, ½ teaspoon seasoned salt, 1 tablespoon finely chopped green onion, 2 teaspoons prepared mustard and 1 teaspoon prepared horseradish.

Cooked Vegetable Makes the Salad

A cooked vegetable plus crisp greens make the salad.

Fried Chicken with Spanish Rice
Zucchini Salad
Hot Biscuits
Fresh Fruit
Iced Beverage

Zucchini Salad

1 zucchini (¼ pound), about 8 inches long
2 cups boiling water
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups torn romaine, packed down
¼ cup thinly sliced celery
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 teaspoons red wine vinegar
1 tablespoon finely grated onion (pulp and juice)
1 small clove garlic, crushed
Extra salt plus freshly ground pepper

Cut off ends from zucchini; scrub in cold water; do not pare; slice ⅛-inch thick — there should be about 1½ cups. In a covered 10-inch skillet, boil the zucchini with the boiling water and the ½ teaspoon salt until tender-crisp — about 5 minutes; drain. Rinse zucchini with cold water to chill. Into a salad bowl, turn the zucchini, romaine, celery, oil, vinegar, onion and garlic; toss, adding extra salt and water to chill. Into a salad bowl, the pepper to taste. (More oil and vinegar may be added if desired.) Makes 3 servings.

Ex-Mayor Objects To Service Charge

Pacifica City Manager C. W. Masonheimer's proposal to institute a sewer service charge in the city met with strong criticism from former Mayor Gerald Schumacher and other members of the audience at last week's meeting of the city council.

Schumacher said he will attempt to bring about a referendum to negate any council action on the proposal, which calls for a regular monthly charge for sewer service.

"If you adopt this proposal and budget on that basis, you run the risk of having the funds removed by referendum," Shumacher said.

Masonheimer has proposed the sewer service charge, at an undetermined rate, "in order to broaden the city's revenue base."

Former City Manager Carl Baldwin also recommended instituting the sewer charge, but the council declined to approve the proposal because of opposition from homewners.

Masonheimer said the funds are needed for new expansions at the city's disposal plant and also to cover cost of maintenance on the system.

"Maintenance and operational funds are now derived from taxes," he said, "but these funds are not sufficient to cover the costs of the needed expansions. Also, I feel a user's charge would be the fairest means of requiring the needed revenue.

A sewer connecting fee and a "trunk fee" are now in effect in Pacifica, but funds from these sources are needed to pay off bonds on the system, the manager said.

Opponents of the sewer service charge contend it will deprive homeowners of the income tax deduction they would receive if the money was paid in the form of property taxes.

Masonheimer said any loss to the taxpayer would be negligible, "since the sewer costs would probably be only $15 to $18 a year for each homeowner."

"I feel funds derived from taxes should properly be reserved for capital outlay," the manager said.

Councilmen will consider the city manager's proposal further at a budget study meeting this week.

Free Chest X-rays In Pacifica

Free chest X-rays will be offered to the public Tuesday and Wednesday, August 22 and 23, at Linda Mar Shopping Center in Pacifica.

The service—aimed at early detection of TB, lung cancer and enlarged heart—will be provided by the mobile unit of the Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association of San Mateo County.

Persons 18 and older may have their X-rays taken any time between 2 and 7 p.m. both days. No advance appointment is necessary; the service requires only a minute or two.

D.C. Democrat Is Candidate For Congress

Bryant McDonald, a 55-year-old self-emloyed San Francisco realtor and resident of 475 Skyline Drive, Daly City, has become the third announced Democratic candidate for the 11th Congressional District seat of the late J. Arthur Younger (Rep.-San Mateo).

"After considering the present candidates for Congress and studying their issues and after long and serious thought. I have decided to bow to the will of the people and enter the race for Congressman," he said today in a platform statement entitled "The Hawk After the Doves."

The Texas-born McDonald has been in business for himself for 18 years and lived in Daly City the past 3½ years. He and his wife Sylvia have no children. He has a business education, is a World War II Navy veteran and a member of the West O'Peaks Post of Veterans of Foreign Wars.

He joins Democrats Roy A. Archibald, a San Mateo city councilman, and Edward M. Keating, former Ramparts magazine publisher, who have announced their candidacy for the nomination in the November 14 primary election. Should no candidate get a majority of votes the top candidates of each party will be in a runoff election December 12.

Five Republican candidates have announced. They are Sheriff Earl Whitmore, attorney Paul N. McCloskey, businessman William H. Draper, III, and former New York Congressman Robert Barry and Lawrence Arky.

McDonald's 15-point platform states he is behind President Johnson on his Vietnam policy and found on a recent Southeast Asia tour that all free nations were afraid the U.S. would leave "and throw them to the wolves," until assured the U.S. wouldn't.

"We have enough doves in Congress," McDonald said.

Other major points are: Tax relief for senior citizens, 100 per cent support of organized labor, stopping of racial rioting and opening of the Suez Canal and Gulf of Aqaba to free traffic and keeping of old Jerusalem by Israel.

LAWRENCE ARKY

Arky Fifth Candidate For GOP

The fifth avowed Republican candidate for Congress entered the campaign last week.

On the third anniversary of the president's signing of the Southeast Asian Resolution into law, Lawrence Arky, a Daly City real estate man, tossed his hat into the ring, joining William Draper, Earl Whitmore, Bob Barry and Paul McCloskey.

Arky is a graduate of U.S.F. and is employed at the N. A. Sapunar Realty Company. He lives at 257 First Avenue, Daly City, and is unmarried. He served in Korea with the U.S. Air Force.

Arky deplored the current state of affairs in Vietnam and said that if elected, "I will prove that patriotism is still in fashion, and that democracy is very much alive as expressed in the voice of the people.

"I will engage in a campaign to bring about the Great Debate in the halls of Congress which will result in a restatement of our foreign commitments consistent with the domestic needs of our people.

"To express our people's recognition of the sacrifices and devotion of those who died and were wounded in this conflict and to give an outward expression of our vital concern for those now engaged in battle I propose the following:

"I will call upon the governors of all the states in the union to assist in furnishing the names of all their sons who died or were wounded in this Vietnam war. I will then call in person at the homes and businesses of those people in San Mateo County and ask them, as concerned citizens to display one of these names alongside the flag of our country, so that when Veterans' Day, 1967, is upon us, all America will know that the people of San Mateo County regard this loss as more than a statistic. It will tell one-half million of our youth engaged in the field of battle that the people of San Mateo County, through their voice in Congress will bring about a democratic and realistic approach to this very vital issue.

"I will go to the people and ask for their support in my proposed legislative program, regarding the issues of urban problems and taxes, the details of which will be formally outlined in my next release."

District Gets State Money For Building

The Jefferson Elementary Elementary School District was among 27 Northern California school districts to be allocated nearly $10 million by the State Allocation Board in Sacramento yesterday for school planning and construction.

Jefferson is to receive $104,563.

An intermediate school will be planned in the Jefferson district at St. Francis Heights for 1,000 students in 24 classrooms. McSweeney and Schuppel have been named architects for the school.

D.C. Boy Rescued From Coast Surf

A 15-year-old Daly City boy was rescued from the cold Pacific Saturday afternoon after falling from Mussel Rock in Pacifica.

Carvan Lazatto, 135 Oliver Street, had been seeking mussels with a friend, when he slipped into the water.

The friend was unable to reach Carvan, but fishermen aboard a commercial "party boat" fishing nearby, the Louraine, heard his screams.

After several attempts in the breaking surf, the Louraine picked the lad out of the water, and radioed for assistance, as he had been bruised badly by being thrown against the rocks in the rough water.

Coast Guardsmen flying from San Francisco International Airport dropped a helicopter through the offshore fog-bank, and removed the boy to Crissey Field, where he was taken to Letterman General Hospital.

Rustling At Coast Ranch

Sheriff's detectives were investigating a case of cattle rustling on a Montara ranch today.

Arthur K. Blackhurst of San Bruno, owner of the McNee Ranch, told deputies yesterday that he discovered that a 4-months-old Angus calf had been led off and slaughtered. The animal was either herded or led out of its pasture to a site near a hunters' camp in the upper part of the ranch. There it had been shot through the head and the left rear quarter had been removed.

"DENTAL HEALTH FACTS"

What is malocclusion?

Malocclusion is irregularity of tooth position and poor fitting together of the teeth on closing the jaws. Such irregularity not only may interfere with chewing and with speech but also may lead to disease of the gums and other supporting structures of the teeth (periodontal disease). Malocclusion may also produce deformities of the face.

Dr. Campbell tries to limit his practice to the making of dental plates, partial plates, removable bridges and extractions for some; however, he recommends that you see your dentist at least twice a year in order to help prolong the use of your natural teeth. Dentures are not as efficient as healthy, natural teeth.

(Sugar 'n Spice)

It's Stormy In Midwest

Good morning, good cooks.

At the risk of having to change the title of my column from "Sugar and Spice" to "Nell's Weather Report," let me note that it is foggy, foggy, foggy! So bad it took two cups of coffee for me to dare to look out the window into the srirling mists.

Ah, well — just remember, the temperature in Tucson frequently gets up over 105-degrees. And in the midwest they are having thunder and lightning storms, with a little toronado or two thrown in for good measure. And those people who are looking out the windows through screens now will have to take them down and put up storm windows in October.

MENU

Main-Dish Tomatoes Succotash
Tossed Green Salad
Cookies Sliced Banans and Peaches Coffee

For a change today I thought we'd plan a whole meal. This main dish using tomatoes, which are so plentiful are inexpensive these days, is delicious and looks delightful too.

MAIN-DISH BAKED TOMATOES

8 large whole raw tomatoes
1 lb. ground beef
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped celery
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 cups soft bread crumbs
One cup diced tomato pulp
Salt and pepper to taste
4 teaspoons butter or margarine

Cut a slice from stem end of tomato and scoop out pulp, leaving shell intact. Reserve one cup of pulp to use in recipe. Drain tomato shells.

Brown the one pound of ground beef, one-half cut each chopped onion and celery in the one tablespoon margarine. Add the two cups soft bread crumbs, tomato pulp, salt and pepper. Mix well and spoon into tomato cups. Dot top of each with one-half teaspoon butter.

Place in a casserole or baking pan and bake for 45 minutes at 350 degrees. Makes 8 servings.

☆ ☆ ☆

THERE is a cartoon character, I think it's Daffy Duck, who when under great duress calls out this sibilation, "Sufferin 'Succotash!" Which causes great merriment among the young in the audience. (And the not-so-young, too.) However, I hate to have as delicious dish as succotash associated with suffering, for — the only suffering would be in not having enough.

SUCCOTASH

1 pkg. frozen lima beans
2 teaspoons salt
2 pkgs. frozen whole-kernel corn
¼ cup light cream
2 Tablespoons butter or margarine
Dash of pepper

In a medium saucepan, bring three-fourth cup water with 1½ teaspoons salt to boiling. Add the one package lima beans; Bring to boiling again. Reduce heat, and simmer, covered for 15 minutes.

Add the two packages corn; simmer three minutes longer, or until beans and corn are tender. Drain well. Toss with the remaining one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth cup light cream, two tablespoons of butter and pepper, to mix well. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

THE NICE THING about making cookies for dessert is that they serve as a dessert for dinner and then you have lots left over to fill that ever-empty cookie jar.

CHOCOLATE CRISP BRAN COOKIES

2 cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup soft butter or margarine
1½ cups sugar
2 eggs
1 teas. vanilla
2½ cups 40% Bran Flakes
1 cup (6 oz.) chocolate chips

Sift together the two cups flour, one-half teaspoon each soda and salt. Blend the one cup soft butter and one and one-half cups sugar and beat until light and fluffy.

Add the sifted dry ingredients and mix well. Lastly add the two and one-half cups bran flakes and the cup of chocolate chips. Blend well and drop by teaspoonfuls onto ungreased baking sheet.

Bake in 375-degree oven about 12 minutes or until cookies are lightly browned. Makes about 6½ dozen.

☆ ☆ ☆

WHENEVER I serve cookies for dessert I like to serve two varieties. This bar cookie makes an attractive appearance and tastes mighty good too.

ORANGE-MARMALADE BARS

1¼ cups sifted flour
1½ teas. double acting baking powder
¼ teas. salt.
6 Tablespoons butter
½ cup granulated sugar
2 eggs
1½ Tablespoons orange marmalade
1 Tablespoon grated orange rind
½ cup orange juice

Sift together the one and one-fourth cups flour, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder and one-fourth teaspoon salt.

Beat in mixer the six tablespoons butter and one-half cup sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in the two eggs one at a time. Add the one and one-half tablespoon marmalade and one tablespoon grated orange rind. Then beat in the sifted ingredients alternately with the one-half cup orange juice. Blend well.

Pour into a greased and floured 8x8x2-inch pan and bake in 350-degree oven 35 to 40 minutes. Cool and spread with the following frosting.

FROSTING

1 cup sifted confectioners sugar
2 Tablespoons orange juice
Grated orange peel

Blend the one cup of confectioners sugar and the two tablespoons orange juice. Spread over cookies and grate a bit of orange peel over all for color.

Airports Are Urged To Unite

A proposal to unite the interests of Los Angeles and San Francisco International Airports was made at San Francisco's airport last week by Public Utilities General Manager James K. Carr and Public Utilities Commissioner Thomas White.

Speaking to a joint meeting of Los Angeles and San Francisco Commissioners, Carr pointed out that airport planning and problems in Northern and Southern California are similar.

"Together," he said, "our two airports account for more passengers than any airport in the world. Singly, they are number three and four in the nation."

"Together," he added, "San Francisco and Los Angeles could easily account for 30,000,000 passengers in and out, this year. There isn't anything else in the world that compares, there isn't any other air route that even comes close to the capacity of the San Francisco-Los Angeles corridor."

Carr suggested the two airport commissions unite in appeals to Washington for federal aid against the problems of land space and noise.

He noted that Los Angeles has apparently adopted a policy of buying up homes nearby, when the owners complain of jet noise, and suggested this is a policy too expensive for San Francisco to contemplate.

Public Utilities Commissioner White, after greeting Los Angeles Airport Commissioners Louis Warschaw, A. M. Rochlen, and Melvin Erickson, made them "honorary cable car conductors of San Francisco."

He then said "we have met to decide how we are going to build Twenty-first Century airports in the Twentieth Century.

"We have got to convince our country that airports are as necessary to the nation's welfare, and its defense, as freeways."

Airport Manager George Hansen described to Los Angeles Airport Manager Francis Fox the Bay Area plan for development with funds from a $98,000,000 bond issue which goes to vote in November.

Fox commented that Los Angeles is trying to raise $500,000,000, which will found a regional airport system tying Ontario, Orange County, Burbank, Palmdale, and Los Angeles International Airports in to a regional system.

Los Angeles has partially solved the problem of operating an airport in a different county by annexing Ontario, which is in San Bernardino County, to the Los Angeles district, commented Commissioner Melvin Erickson.
